Christmas Is For Giving

Because of those who share, Christmas will be brighter and happier for many low-income families. Every Christmas season, a Manheim farm family packs boxes with all the fixings needed for a traditional holiday meal: turkey, corn, peas, applesauce, potatoes, cranberry sauce, biscuits, and pie. Two other families fill large laundry-sized bags with practical gifts such as kettles, tea towels, pot holders, cooking utensils, plastic buckets, bathroom tissue, and so forth. These generous givers do not know the families who receive the food boxes and the gifts. Instead the boxes are distributed through the Expanded Food and Nutrition Educational Program (EFNEP) adminstered through Penn State Extension. EFNEP advisers work with low-income families on a daily basis to teach them how use limited food resources to prepare nourishing meals. The advisers distribute the gifts to people who will most benefit from the items. Above, Tatyan Pereyaslav, right, receives gifts distributed by EFNEP adviser Brenda Stallman. The farm family, who wish to remain anonymous, said, "We know there are hungry people who don't have what we have. We like sharing because God gave his greatest gift — Jesus Christ — to us, so in return we give to others." Turn to page B14 to read more about families who believe Christmas is for "giving, not getting."

Newest Staff Writer Is True Dairy Person

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — At age five, she began feeding calves after her brother broke his collarbone. By age 12, she was a regular milker on her parents' 150-cow dairy. At age 18, she was crowned dairy princess, and, at age 22, she married the milkman.

You could say Lancaster Farming's newest staff writer grew up in the heart of the dairy industry.

Editor Everett Newswanger annouced this week that Jayne Sebright of East Berlin has joined staff of the Lancaster Farming as a reporter. She will cover dairy, government, and environment news for the paper.

"Jayne brings a balanced mix to the paper by being both a farmer's wife and a public relations professional," Newswanger said. "She will provide a firsthand perspective on the issues that farmers face in the 21st century."

Jayne has worked in all aspects of the dairy industry, from milking the cows to marketing the products. She studied nutrition and

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Tue Dec 21, 1999

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Market Summary

Grain and soybean bids were mostly lower after Monday's sharp increases. Slowed export interest and a pick up in farmer selling pressured bids. Wheat 1 to 2 cents lower. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 2 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 3 cents lower. Slight declines were noted on the Boards today, as traders take some profits going into the holiday weekend Wheat export interest has been light this week but Taiwan and Morocco are expected to tender later this week. Dry conditions still a problem in parts of winter wheat growing areas but moisture is in some upcoming forecasts. Corn bids were slightly lower due to light farmer selling reported and light export orders. Additional weakness stemmed from rains in South Africa. Trade corrections in bean pits pushed bean bids slightly lower. Taiwan bought a small amount of soybeans overnight but sales are down for the week.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

DEC. 27-JAN. 2, 2000

KWANZAA, DEC. 26-JAN. 1.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

"It's a small world" as technology and globalization bring communities closer. In a spirit of togetherness then, let us celebrate our New Year with a cross cultural nod to other traditions. We could benefit from the Chinese custom of starting the new year as free of debt as possible for example. The African American Kwanzaa toast of 'Harambee' says "Let's all pull together." In Scotland, the year starts with the ritual of first footing where the first person over the threshold brings a small gift for the household's good fortune. Remember, what you do on January 1, you will do often.

Ring, happy bells, across the snow: the year is going, let him go . . .

Alfred Lord Tennyson

TIP OF THE WEEK

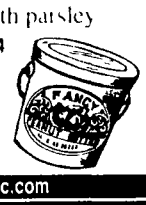
☞ Find someone who shares your New Year's resolution (more exercise?) and team up to see that it happens.

AFRICAN PEANUT SOUP

- 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 yellow onion, diced
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons peanut butter
- 1 large tomato, diced
- 1 teaspoon red chili pepper (optional)
- parsley, to garnish

Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces. Heat oil in a saucepan and brown the chicken. Remove and set chicken aside. Saute onions until translucent. Combine ¼ cup of the water with the peanut butter and mix until smooth. Add to saucepan along with chicken and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, then lower heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Garnish with parsley.

Makes 4 servings



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A warm and open winter portends a hot and dry summer.

Winter thunder bodes summer's hunger.

January wet, no wine you get.

Fog in January brings a wet spring.

OPINION

The Christmas Story

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them; Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning the child. All they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light; they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder, and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace

To Apply For Federal Crop Disaster Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has $1 2 billion for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP) for farmers who suffered losses to 1999 crops due to natural disasters. Drought farmers are eligible for compensation for 1999 crop losses directly attributed to adverse weather conditions. The payment formulas provide greater benefits to farmers who bought insurance on their eligible crops in 1999. Farmers did not have to take out crop insurance in 1999 in order to receive payments. However, as a condition of receiving benefits under this program, farmers who did not insure 1999 crops are required to purchase crop insurance in 2000 and 2001 for all insurable crops they grow. Payments to farmers will be prorated after all applications are reviewed in order to stay within the program's budget Sign up began Dec. 13, 1999 and ends February 25, 2000 Farmers should contact their local USDA Service Center or Farm Service Agency office for more information

To Understand Crop Disaster Payments

Under the federal Crop Disaster Program (CDP), farmers will be compensated if their losses exceed 35 percent of historic yields. Farmers with eligible losses of insured crops will be compensated at 65 percent of crop insurance market price elections. Farmers with eligible losses to insurable crops will be compensated at 65 percent of the five year average National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) price. Yields will be based on the higher of the five year NASS county average yield or the crop insurance APH yield or non-insured crop disaster assistance approved yield. Payments are limited to $80,000 per person. No one with an annual gross income of $2.5 million or more is eligible for CDP payments.

To Apply For State Disaster Grants

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has created an emergency drought relief program in the form of crop loss assistance grants for farmers who suffered crop loss due to the 1999 drought The $60 million state program is in addition to any crop loss assistance under the federal Crop Disaster Program (CDP) There is also $5.6 million available to assist farmers in meeting the requirement to purchase federal crop insurance for 2000 and 2001. Pennsylvania farmers who meet eligibility criteria of the USDA CDP are also eligible for the Pennsylvania program. To be considered, farmers must apply at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office and meet the eligibility criteria for the 1999 CDP. In addition, farmers must sign a Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) Drought Relief Program Application and Waiver of Confidentiality form available at the local FSA office PDA will calculate a state crop assistance grant from the USDA application information The amount of the state grant, if any, will not exceed 75 percent of the amount you receive under the federal program Upon completion of the one page PDA form, the FSA office will send the information to PDA. The Pennsylvania program will follow the same sign-up period as the federal CDP, Dec. 13, 1999 to February 25, 2000. For additional information contact your local FSA office or PDA at 717-787-4737.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE DANGEROUS INFANT

December 26, 1999

Background Scripture:
Matthew 2.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 98.

It is difficult to imagine that an infant can be dangerous. Traditionally, infants are the epitome of innocence. But there are some children who are marked for enmity before they enter this world, even before they have an opportunity to evoke someone's displeasure or opposition. Jesus of Nazareth was one such infant, in fact, he was the most marked infant ever to enter this world for he was regarded as dangerous.

Actually, King Herod was right, Jesus is dangerous — as infant, grown man or resurrected Lord. Of course, Herod was thinking about the stability of his kingdom. Herod was not born a prince of the Jews; by bribery he gained the support of Anthony soon after the victory of Anthony and Octavian at Philippi. He was declared King of the Jews by the Emperor August in 40 BC. A true Jewish messiah (Herod was not really Jewish but Idumaean) would be very threatening to his hold over the Jewish people. Killing this child would make his reign more secure.

Spiritual Power

In reality, Jesus was never intended to be a threat to Herod in that way. The kingdom that Jesus would claim was not a kingdom of flesh and blood but of the spirit. The same is true today: political and temporal authority are threatened by Jesus Christ, not because he is likely to claim earthly power, but it is his spiritual power that makes him so dangerous. In the long run, spiritual power undermines and supersedes every other kind. If you are going to fear something, make certain that it is spiritual instead of temporal.

The danger of this babe in swaddling clothes in an animal's feed trough is also symbolized by the wise men who come seeking him, for these men represent a threat to our sense of ownership of the Christ. Of course they were not Christians (for Christians had not yet been invented) and neither were they Jews. What little we may deduce from what Matthew writes of them is that they were from somewhere east of Palestine. Scholars tend to believe that they represented a learned class in Persia. Their religion or religions would be foreign and distasteful to the Jews.

Astrologers

Furthermore, the men were astrologers: "For we have seen his star in the East, and have come to worship him." It would surprise many Christians to learn that astrology and Christianity enjoyed a mutual relationship for many centuries. Many of the fine cathedrals of Europe abound in astrological symbols and art. It is only in modern times that many Christians have assumed that astrology was a rival religion and a threat to the gospel. This is not the time and place to go into a protracted discussion of that issue, but it does illustrate for us Jesus Christ is dangerous to our sense of ownership of the kingdom of God. The fences we build to keep the truth in and the strangers out are a sham and pretense. We cannot, must not tell God where and how he can operate in his world. The gospel is not our private possession. When we assume ownership of the gospel we are on the ragged edge of blasphemy.

When Herod realized that the wise men (notice Matthew doesn't say there are three of them) had tricked him, he has killed all the male children of Bethlehem up to two years old. The Baby Jesus was unwittingly dangerous for innocent children. That, too, is true today. As an adult Jesus was forthright about the danger: ". . . they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors for my name's sake" (Lk. 21:12). "If they persecuted me, they will persecute you . . ." (Ja. 15:20). In fact, Jesus sees grace in this tragedy: "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake; for theirs is the kingdom of God" (Mt. 5:10).

This is a sobering note in the midst of the joy of Christmas. But without this note of warning, without this acknowledgement of the danger this infant represents, the Incarnation of Jesus Christ would be just another fairytale, pleasant to hear but irrelevant to the place and time in which we live.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

By Ken Bailey
Penn State University
December 17, 1999

USDA Announces Milk Production Report

- November milk production up 4 4 percent
- Cheese prices weaken
- USDA announces 2000 support prices
- Federal order reform to be implemented

USDA announced this week that milk production in 20 major states during November was 11 3 billion pounds, up 4 4 percent over a year ago

Production per cow averaged 1,458 pounds, 51 pounds or 3 6 percent more than November 1998 And cow numbers continued to increase month over month Cow numbers in November were 7 76 million head up 58 000 head from November 1998 and up 7 000 from the month before

Most of the milk production increases were from the West Idaho was up 14 9 percent, California up 12 1 percent, and New Mexico up 11 7 percent Milk production was also up in other states, although at much lower rates

In my state of Pennsylvania, milk production grew 2 6 percent Milk production was down in Florida (-2 8 percent), Illinois (-5 3 percent), Indiana (-3 4 percent), Iowa (-2 2 percent), Missouri (-2 7 percent), and Wisconsin (-0 3 percent)

This was disappointing but expected news to the market Cow numbers and milk production continue to increase in the range of 3-5 percent each month relative to a year ago Normally milk production rises 1-3 percent The November growth was expected since dairy farmers have not yet received any price signals to slow down The October milk check was still fairly high and farmers received this around November 20th The November milk check contains a near record high Class I price Farmers will receive this check next week

So the pain of lower commodity and Class III prices will continue until milk production slows down But that won't occur until it fully shows up in the mailbox. Farmers will receive their lowest milk check around January 20th Milk production should start to slow thereafter

Cheese prices noticeably weakened after the milk production report was released Cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange fell on Thursday Prices for 40-pound blocks rose from$1 21 per pound on Monday, December 13 to $1 22 the next day Prices fell to $1 1475 per pound by Friday, December 17. Likewise, barrel prices rose from $1.19 per pound on Monday to $1 21 on Tuesday, only to fall to $1 15 by Friday This price inversion (barrels higher than blocks) is very unusual in the cheese business.

Butter prices were relatively weak at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange

Grade AA butter prices remained steady at $0.9050 per pound Despite relatively brisk demand, there are ample supplies of fresh and frozen butter available

The market will be looking to the November stocks report for new market information That should be released next week (Monday, December 20th) It will allow us to estimate commercial disappearance, or market demand Commodity prices for cheese and butter will either remain the same or strengthen

USDA also announced the 2000 dairy price support levels (CCC purchase prices) They are: $0 65 per pound for butter, $1 10 for block cheese, $1 07 for barrel cheese, and 1 01 for nonfortified nonfat dry milk The Secretary of Agriculture has the authority to change the balance between butter and nonfat dry milk prices twice during the year 2000 Thus it is possible that the butter support price could be raised and the nonfat dry milk price lowered in an attempt to reduce USDA purchases and budget outlays for nonfat dry milk That would immediately reduce market prices for powder and thus lower most class prices under order reform The new class price formulas are very sensitive to nonfat dry milk prices

Speaking of order reform, the green light is on The Secretary of Agriculture's final rule has been amended by the omnibus spending bill recently signed by the President USDA announced this week that order reform will begin January 1 of 2000 (see my website for details)

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly - and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg"

How do I use my Chi Machine?
* Place the machine on a rug Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine
* Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire First time users should start with 2-5 minutes
* The footrest will begin to move back and forth carrying your feet briskly from side to side This movement will carry up through your legs and torso throuthout your entire body causing you to wiggle back and forth - that s right like a fish swimming in water
* All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes
* When the time is up and the machine stops remain lying down for another two to five minutes, relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow chi - as it moves throughout your body

"In two months of using the Chi Machine, my thighs hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20 s - and I m almost 52"

Tobacco Price Woes

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Tobacco growers, expecting $1 to $1.25 a pound for their best tobacco, found that bidding came up short Monday, the opening day of the tobacco auction season here at the Orlon Industrial Park.

Top bid was a dismal 80 cents a pound for a skid or two, noted Dennis Hess, manager of the Pennsylvania Tobacco Marketing Association auction.

At time of sale, there were 183,485 pounds on the warehouse floor divided into two groups. The first group, this year's grown and stripped tobacco, comprised 80,093 pounds sold, which averaged 68 cents per pound. Old tobacco sold comprised 5,364 pounds with an average of 60 cents per pound.

Because of the low prices, bidding originally scheduled midweek was postponed until Monday, Jan. 3, at 10 a.m. at the New Holland auction site.

Tobacco from about 55-60 growers was on the floor at the start of the sale, Hess noted. About three buyers were on hand. Those buyers intend to return to January's sale, Hess said.

But growers are looking at another dismal tobacco auction year in the making.

"Things don't look too promising," noted Hess.

Nationally, the flue-cured tobacco season has ended, with less than half that went into the national pool being purchased, at half price. Burley and tobacco from the association are mixed in processing, and it looks like the same situation faces the burley growers — so a great big price recovery doesn't appear on the horizon.

About 1-3 million pounds of older tobacco still sits in Lancaster County barns, Hess noted. The producers who stripped it too wet could see the most losses if it doesn't sell. For the rest, as long as the tobacco was stripped dry and is kept cool and dry, the product can sit until better prices appear.

As for the quality of tobacco sold Monday, Hess noted it looked to be of a wider range "than has been here for some time," he said. The farmers who began cutting one week after the rains came, but before Hurricane Floyd hit the area, produced some of the nicest tobacco he has seen. But farmers who cut after Floyd have tobacco that can be in "bad shape,"

Milk Marketing Board Mandates An Increase

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co) — The Milk Marketing Board (MMB) Members, Beverly R. Minor, J. Robert Derry and Luke F. Brubaker, voted at a special Sunshine Meeting on Dec. 13 to increase the over-order premium to $1.20 per hundred pounds of milk (cwt) that is to be paid to Pennsylvania dairy farmers for their Class I (drinking) milk that is produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania. This $1 20 premium will be paid to Pennsylvania's farmers for 6 months beginning January, 2000, when typically prices for milk are at its lowest.

This action was a result of an Over-Order Premium Hearing held Dec. 1, 1999 that was initially petitioned by Dairylea Cooperative Inc. and Dairy Farmers of America to determine if the current over-order premium $.40 per cwt. should be increased.

The Basic Formula Price for September was $16.26 per cwt. and fell $4.77 to $11.49 per cwt in Oct 1999 Additionally, prices recently announced for November fell to $9.79 per cwt – the lowest price paid in 21 years The over-order premium is paid directly to the dairy farmer by the processor that purchases his milk Since 1988, the MMB has mandated that Pennsylvania dairy farmers be paid an over-order premium for milk that is produced, processed and sold in Pennsylvania. In the past the premium has ranged from $.40 per cwt to $1 81 per cwt

This over-order premium must be an amount that will help Pennsylvania dairy farmers while not placing them at a competitive disadvantage with surrounding states

As a result of the lower prices being paid to Pennsylvania dairy farmers, Pennsylvania consumers will see a corresponding drop in the retail out-of-store price being charged. The MMB establishes minimum retail out-of-store milk prices to be charged to consumers based on the price to be paid to dairy farmers Therefore, when the price to be paid to dairy farmers drops, the price charged the consumer drops This is not the case in other states The vast majority of Pennsylvania retailers charge consumers the MMB established minimum for milk. The exception is Philadelphia County; however, the MMB does not establish maximum prices so retailers can sell at any amount over the minimum that the market will sustain

York Holstein Club Names New Directors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Four directors were elected to the board of the York County Holstein Association during its annual meeting and dinner, held Dec 3 at the Shrewsbury Fire Hall

The four newly-elected county club leaders are Paul Knight, Airville, Scott Cooper, Delta, Glenn Anderson, East Prospect and Gail Thoman, Dallastown Other directors are Dan Hushon, Delta, Sue Beshore, New Cumberland, Darla Doll, Glen Rock, Chris Druck, Airville and Brad Walker, Thomasville State director is Thomas Boyer, York

Retiring from the board after completing their three-year terms were Roy Thompson, Leroy Bupp and June Boyer, as well as Jenelle Boyer, who has moved from the area.

Pennsylvania Holstein executive director Ken Raney briefed the York members on the upcoming state convention, scheduled for February 17 and 18, 2000, as well as the junior state convention, Feb. 4-6. Both will be hosted by the Southcentral Region, of which York County is a part, at the Clarion Hotel (formerly The Embers) at Carlisle, Cumberland County.

Raney noted that heifers sales have switched from filling export demands to supplying primarily domestic buyers, including expanding dairies in the West Identified cattle still command better prices, Raney added, with overall values ranging from $200 to $300 more per head

"Buyers want tested cattle," he emphasized, adding that the customer criteria most often include identification, health testing, and maintenance of vaccinations.

Cattle are also being sought for the upcoming annual convention sale, according to sale chairman Tom Boyer. Boyer reminded Holstein members that the traditional Spring Sale is not scheduled for 2000, so the numbers for the convention sale will be slightly higher than usual, with a planned offering of 80 to 85 head Holstein breeders interested in consigning the the convention sale should contact Boyer or Raney at the PHA office as quickly as possible.

Junior member Daphne Doll, Glen Rock, snagged top place in all three categories of the county's junior Holstein production awards with her bred and owned Dar-Dale Vanguard Val, also a long-time winner on the show circuit The winning lactation was at 6-years, 11-months, 305 days, with 23,473 pounds milk, 3.5% and 830 pounds butterfat and 3.1% and 719 pounds protein.

Also honored was junior member Angie Beshore, New Cumberland, who will represent York County in the state Distinguished Junior Member contest for 2000.

The March "Holstein Profiles" publication will be geared to junior members activities and awards, with special rates for juniors who advertise in that issue. Interested juniors may contact Raney or Boyer for more information.

Alternate York County Dairy Princess Michelle Walker had her audience on their feet dancing during her lighthearted, musical milk promotion presentation.

Not everyone is pleased with the final outcome, but it does reflect a general political and economic consensus I am personally excited about the new reform as it will serve the dairy industry well in the years ahead My only warning is don't confuse the short-run drops in commodity prices with the new order reform The two are separate Commodity prices will bounce back once the growth in the milk supply slows And that will raise class prices and hence farm mailbox milk prices The new reforms will allow for more up-to-date and transparent milk pricing

For more information on dairy outlook and federal order reform, see my web site at: http://www aers psu edu/dairyoutlook/

NCFC Strengthens Environmental Expertise Through New Partnership With USDA-NRCS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Council of Farmer Cooperatives (NCFC) president David Graves announced that Patrick Wolf has joined NCFC's Government and Public Affairs Team as a conservation liaison on detail from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service (USDA-NRCS).

"While Pat remains fully employed by USDA, our members will gain more value for their investment in NCFC because of this mutually beneficial agreement between NCFC and USDA-NRCS, particularly as we work to address important environmental issues," said Graves. "We are pleased to have Pat join our team in this very productive and effective way."

Wolf will be working with NCFC and its member cooperatives on a range of conservation-related issues and initiatives including:

- Identification of water quality-related concerns and regulations.
- Implications for cooperatives and their farmer members .
- Compliance assistance and business-oriented remedies such as nutrient management programs.
- Advancement of conservation objectives by cooperatives and their farmer members through voluntary programs and initiatives.

"I am very excited about being a part of NCFC's talented team as well as working with the Council's tremendous membership base," said Wolf. "Cooperative environmental stewardship is a vital part of NCFC's overall program of work, and I am looking forward to advancing its agenda in this area."

The partnership between NCFC and NRCS was established through a new Memorandum of Agreement (MOA), under which the two organizations will seek to maximize efforts to promote voluntary conservation and stewardship of natural resources on private lands through the use of USDA and other conservation programs.

The primary emphasis of the agreement will be on addressing water quality and other conservation concerns of interest to cooperative businesses and their member owners. The MOA is in effect through the end of 2000 and could be extended by mutual agreement.

Wolf has been the state conservationist for NRCS in Ohio from October 1996 to October 1999. He also had served as deputy state conservationist with NRCS in Des Moines, Iowa, and has held various NRCS technical positions in Missouri, Washington, D.C., Mississippi, Colorado, North Carolina, and Illinois during his 30-year federal career. This included three periods, totaling two and a half years, when he was on special assignment in the United States Senate as an agricultural legislative assistant for Senators Thad Cochran (R-MS), David Karnes (R-NE), and Tom Harkin (D-IA).

Wolf was born and raised on a cash grain farm in Morrisonville, Ill., and is still actively involved in the family farm. He received his bachelor's degree in agriculture from Illinois State University.

Do We Or Don't We Need A Rt. 23 By-Pass?

SAM S. STOLTZFUS
Amish Farmer

MILLCREEK (Lancaster Co.)-Lancaster County farmers in the Millcreek Valley have three main concerns this fall. Will milk and cattle prices stay at profitable levels, will hay and grain prices stay at the low levels, and will the new Rt. 23 cut through their farm.

Folks scan their newspaper this last while and say, many in their native tongue (net vidda un study fon dem nia veg) not again a study of the new road. Yes, another study made, more tax dollars spent to study the county's traffic situation really a population problem. It's hard to sell a by-pass plan to anyone in eastern Lancaster Co. Look at the highway department's well laid plans back in 1967, when Rt. 23 project was started, first the right of way purchased, then grading, bridges built and in the late 1969. The equipment and men took off like a run away horse and what do we have, and still so today. A 16,000-ft. long, goat, cattle, horse and mule pasture. Probably lots easier to sell a 3 legged mule or a 5-cylinder tractor than a new Rt. 23 corridor to Earl Township farmers.

Though we grow weary of all these studies and traffic problems, let's be thankful for what was done. Traffic lights installed, many roads widened, and a big thank you to the highway department for providing the buggy lanes along Rt. 340, 772 and Rt. 23. More roads will get such lanes next year. Let's all be thankful to our good Lord for a road program that is sensitive to our county's traffic needs, this horse and buggy and bicycle traffic.

Let's think about what a new Rt. 23 will bring. Sure then we all can gallop off to work, no traffic jams and perhaps more safely, and downtown Leola and New Holland may be more peaceful. How much faster would folks get to work, studies vary at the most 15-20 min. quicker. Seems we're gonna sacrifice a lot to gain a little speed, of course it will be safer but folks will still drive too fast, and there is the problem.

But our Dutch-man common sense knows otherwise, cut a new road through the country their farms cut up pieces of land isolated, soon sold. Gas stations, McDonald's, banks spring up like weeds in the garden. Soon tax assessments go up, more farms sold. Developments grow faster than pioneer corn. Zoning is changed, variances granted and dot geht da alt nachbaschaft (there goes the old neighborhood).

You don't believe it, look at the Rt. 222-corridor, look how residential and industrial development escalated all the way to the Berks County line. See how Wal-Mart bulldogged into the countryside. Changing zoning and intersections to meet its needs is this what will come in the Weaverland Valley? What kind of life will there be for our children and grandchildren in eastern Lancaster Co.

We must be thankful for our robust Lancaster County economy. Businesses flourish, unemployment at an all time low. Look at all the shops and factories in the Rt. 23-322 corridor. Suppose 3000 or more if they have an average of 5 shipments and receiving a day that is already 15,000 vehicles. Then there's all the folks going to work, the UPS trucks and of course the tourists. All this is just local traffic.

Let's be serious, we must live with this traffic, farmers, shop men, factory operators and tourist places alike, if we want employment for the next generations. And consider how the county's population doubled since 1946, 221,000 to today's 448,674. Thus more people will create more traffic. Let's utilize our Old Dutch philosophy of use what we got to ease the traffic flow. Make the PA Turnpike an interstate highway so through traffic travels on that, consider the New Holland Railroad, get more freight shipped by rail car. Use the bus lines, form car pools.

Land use is the key word, the land is our birthright, our lifeline, use it to grow food it can produce forever. Put in a road or development then we can get there faster but food production ceases.

We all need to think about how our Lancaster County farmland is disappearing. Over 70,000 acres done gone since 1965, approx. 2000 acres a year taken out of food production. Let's just take this 213 acres, give or take for the new 23, take 213 X 160 bushels of corn per acre yield, over 1000 tons of corn. Feed that to beef cattle.

It would furnish 250 steer per year, producing 150,000 pounds of beef making 6000,000 ¼ lb. Big Macs laid side by side would stretch from New Holland to Philly. Suppose ½ would be in corn and ½ in hay 500 tons of corn 1000 tons of hay, this would feed 60 cows for year. Their milk production would be over a million pounds of milk or 50,000 gallons of ice cream.

Let's look at that 1000 tons of corn grind it into corn meal that would feed 2 million hungry folks 1 day.

So what will be the gain if we can get to work 15 min. quicker, then there won't be enough Big Macs and milk shakes.

In our modern age we have instant everything, instant faxes, instant cell phone calls. Computers provide instant answers. Will the new road be an instant answer to traffic problems, should a modern day Jonah come and lecture on traffic safety.

Perhaps we don't really need more new roads, just more patience, and pray more about the road problem. Seems traffic goes too fast. Many 35 mph. Speed limits aren't observed don't seem to be enforced. Folks take big chances passing on yellow lines.

And then one official says "Frankly I don't know where the money is coming from to build this new road." If I recall correctly that was why the goat path was not finished and 'tis a well-known fact big road construction companies have lobbyists in Washington and Harrisburg to assist in passing their highway building projects. This may or may not always work in the best public interest.

The question is do we want the 3 Earls to stay rural and a strong Ag economy or don't we mind. If the countryside is cut up. Seems townships gear up to allow development, put in sewers, water lines allow big stores and nursing home complexes etc. Let's all pray the best decisions are made about the road building project.

Seems the best way to save farm land is to widen and improve existing roads, more traffic lights and again a sincere thanks to D O T for providing buggy lanes along the busy roads, it is greatly appreciated.

Farmer's Museum Receives Special Recognition

GLENMONT, N.Y — The Farmers' Museum, located in Cooperstown, N.Y., was recently added to New York Farm Bureau's highly regarded list of devoted supporters of agriculture.

In recognizing this unique learning institution, New York Farm Bureau presented Joseph Caffrey and Craig Haney with "Excellence" pins, which are to be worn with honor and recognizes those who have worked diligently to promote and educate in the name of agriculture.

The Farmers' Museum also received a Certificate of Recognition. This presentation was part of the state organization's annual meeting at the Crowne Plaza in Albany, Dec. 6-9.

"The Farmer's Museum is one of the best agricultural learning centers in the state and I would encourage everyone to stop by their unique setting," said Judi Whittaker, New York Farm Bureau promotion and education chair. "The museum not only teaches the public about farming in the past, it really tells a story about how farmers will continue to be a part of our future. Thank you to everyone at the Farmer's Museum for helping spread the word about agriculture and educating and influencing so many lives everyday"

Not only is the museum a source of agricultural education, but as part of New York Farm Bureau's Adopt-A-Classroom Program, it provides hands-on experiences and a personal touch that enhances the knowledge of students.

The Farmers' Museum was founded in 1943 by Stephen C. Clark, Sr., as one of the country's earliest outdoor museums to preserve rural history and to promote contemporary agriculture. The museum is unique in its efforts to present a view of the past, while at the same time looking to the present, and the future, of rural America.

Drought Relief Package Signed

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge recently signed into law a comprehensive drought relief measure supported by state Sen. Noah Wenger (R-36), making millions of dollars in aid available to eligible Pennsylvania farmers.

The deadline to apply is Feb. 25, 2000. Applicants must meet eligibility criteria of the federal 1999 Crop Disaster Program, including a minimum 35 percent crop loss.

"The goal is to get this aid out quickly to the farmers who need it," said Wenger. "I urge eligible farmers to contact the federal Farm Service Agency before the deadline."

Act 57 is largest drought relief package in the history of Pennsylvania, and more substantial than drought aid provided by any other state. It also includes funds for flood-damaged communities.

Wenger said the package provides $60 million for drought relief, in addition to a projected $75 million provided by the federal government for crop disaster relief. The relilef act also provides $5.6 million to subsidize crop insurance costs for farmers, to encourage more farmers to participate in crop insurance programs, and protect against future crop losses.

Wenger said local farmers seeking aid must apply in person at the Lancaster County branch of the USDA Farm Service Agency. The Lancaster County Service Center is located at 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

management in college, participated on the Penn State Dairy Judging Team, and spent a summer working in extension and another at Farm Credit. She laid drainage tile on her father's farm, spent days in the tractor disking her husband's fields, and cried the day she sent her first 4-H project to market. However, Jayne's first love has always been writing.

Jayne looks forward to presenting an objective view on the latest issues in agriculture. "It's important that the Lancaster Farming report on all sides of an issue and provide farmers with the bottom line — how it's going to affect their farm."

Graduating from Penn State, Jayne majored in agriculture science with a minor in dairy science and emphasis in communications. After being selected the 1995 Outstanding Senior in the College of Agriculture Sciences, she started working as program director for the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA). She was promoted to communications director in 1997 and then moved to communications specialist in 1998 when the organization merged with local dairy councils to form American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic.

Formerly a milk truck driver, Jayne's husband Robby and his father farm nearly 500 acres and raise heifer replacements. Robby also markets hay and straw to area farmers. Her parents, John and Bonnie Hess, own a 500-cow dairy in Gettysburg, PA, where Jayne's four siblings are all involved in the farm.

Potter County Outstanding Conservation District

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

CHAMPION (Somerset Co.) – Potter County Conservation District received the Outstanding Conservation District Award at the 52nd Joint Annual Conference of the State Conservation Commission and the Pennsylvania Conservation Districts, Inc.

The event at the Seven Springs Mountain Resort was held in November.

In 1945 Potter County Conservation District was the first such organization formed in Pennsylvania. Officials today say its initial vision of preventing erosion and implementing programs to correct problems, after 55 years is still being carried out.

"One of the goals is to be the best organization in the state," stated Ed Kosa, district chairman. "We were the first board authorized and I'd like to be tops."

Serving with Kosa are Ken Comstock, vice-chairman; Earl Brown, treasurer; Roy Thompson, commissioner-director; Dale Hoffman, Fred Baker and Richard Curfman.

Associate directors are Florrie Alackness, Boyd Jestes, Dr. Peter Ryan and Lowell Ayers.

Most challenging of its diverse programs is the Dirt and Gravel Road Program which, so far, has completed some 22 projects.

Included was the stabilization of approximately 20 miles of dirt and gravel roads that affected some 60 miles of streams. These required materials such as 45,000 tons of limestone and 200,000 square feet of geotextile material.

In addition, some 1,400 feet of stream bank has been stabilized.

A positive side of the program was the network and good communications with municipalities served by the district.

Recently, the Potter district began implementing its Biosolids Program, focusing primarily on education.

The district offers a no-till seeder to landowners who desire to rent one for planting small grains and legumes.

Potter County Conservation District has been able to deliver technical assistance to its farmers, as well as education and financial assistance through the Chesapeake Bay Program and the Nutrient Management Program.

Thus, several agricultural waste storage facilities have been constructed, concrete barnyards installed, milk house systems added and fencing installed along stream banks.

The Nutrient Management Program has given farmers an access to have their plans written or reviewed.

Currently, an initiative is under way to organize a volunteer monitoring group, distribute fact sheets and a useful handbook.

A Farmland Preservation Program is being implemented, as well, to conserve valuable farmland. As local companies increase, this is a high priority with the district.

Its Conservation Field Days Program, held annually at the fairgrounds, is geared to educate kids. Assistance comes from the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, Penn State

(Turn to Page A31)

Dreaming Of A White New Year's Day

ITHACA, N Y - At the stroke of year 2000, celebrants throughout the Northeast might be dreaming of a white New Year's Day Likely their dreams will come true -- if they are in Caribou, Maine, the Finger Lakes region of New York, or Burlington, Vt , according to the Northeast Regional Climate Center at Cornell University

Most surprising to Keith Eggleston, a senior climatologist at the climate center, is that after Caribou, the second most-likely place to see a white Jan 1 will be outside his window, in Ithaca N Y

"I didn't expect that," says Eggleston. "Ithaca just barely edged out Syracuse. I was surprised to see that. There was one other year, in 1992, where Ithaca had an inch of snow on the ground and Syracuse only had a trace."

While Caribou has a 97 percent chance of having at least one inch of snow on the ground on New Year's Day morning, second-place Ithaca has a 77 percent chance, while Binghamton, N Y , Syracuse, N.Y , and Burlington, Vt., enjoy a three-way tie at 73 percent. Rochester, N Y , has a 72 percent chance of a white New Year's Day And for folks who will cram into Manhattan's Times Square for the big ball drop, the chances of seeing a white Jan 1 are a lousy 10 percent

Snowmobile heaven Caribou has seen some major snowfalls on New Year's Day The Cornell center's climate statistics for the area, which date back to 1939, show that the small Maine town recorded its biggest Jan 1 snowfall in 1961 with 12 4 inches. Caribou's greatest snow-depth recorded on Jan. 1 was 34 inches in 1979.

Ithaca's heaviest Jan. 1 snowfall also occurred in 1961, when the city saw 11 inches. Ithaca's greatest snow depth on a Jan 1 was 20 inches in 1970, according to Eggleston The center's records for the upstate New York region go back to 1929

Caribou aside, for most of the Northeast, Jan 1, 1971, was the last great, white New Year's Day A storm dumped 6.4 inches of snow in New York City, 5 inches in Philadelphia and 4 9 inches in Boston A New Year's Eve storm on Dec. 31, 1970, dumped 4.4 inches of snow on Wasington, D.C., and 4.9 inches the following day That same storm ropped 3 2 inches of snow on Dec 331, 1970, in Baltimore and 2 nches the next day A half-century ago, a storm delivered 5 5 inches f snow to New York City on Jan 1, 1949, according to the center's ecords

Why are the chances for snow in central and western New York so great?'

Eggleston says that it is due to lake-effect snow for cities like uffalo, Rochester, and Syracuse He explains that storm systems draw oisture from Lake Erie early in the winter season for Buffalo until he lake freezes Lake Ontario, a much-larger and deeper lake, roduces lake-effect snow throughout the winter for its southern shore, yracuse and for western Lewis County, N Y , a region known as the Tug Hill Plateau.

The youths are given an introduction to a watershed by Sandy Thompson, district manager.

When it comes to ascertaining certain permits, not only landowners, but contractors, loggers and so forth depend on the district for assistance in acquiring them.

The district has received an environmental education grant from DEP to supply Kettle Creek watershed landowners with the knowledge to execute sound land management decisions which benefit healthy watersheds.

Finally, the district is implementing a team-work environment between the directors and staff, believing that working together is the only way to maintain and enhance the natural resources in Potter County

Retailers Must Be Part Of Pork Price Recovery, Too

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Last year, pork producers and processors well know, was the worst depression in the industry of the state's hog industry.

Even in 1999, while there was a little bit of recovery, the road ahead for the state's swine industry remains uncertain, rocky, and filled with necessary change.

Although producers are adopting new technology and techniques to become more business-efficient, and packers are working even more closely with buyers, the retailers have yet to do their part, according to the president of Hatfield Meats.

Phil Clemens, president of Hatfield Inc., spoke to more than 100 swine producers and agri-industry representatives last week at the 41st annual meeting and LanChester Pork Council Pork Production Forum at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

"We can't have the 1998-1999 scenario happen again," Clemens said. "Retailers have to share profits back with producers."

Clemens was pointing out what producers and consumers were aware of. During the hog price crisis of 1998, the cost of pork products to the consumer remained relatively unchanged. The price at the store didn't reflect the drastically-below- production-cost experienced by producers — some saw as little as a few cents per pound of pork.

The answer, Clemens believes, lies in partnering.

Partnering with retailers, he noted, works in Japan and in the European market. He believes it will happen here in the U.S., given time.

Hatfield began in 1895. They slaughter about 7,500 hogs per day, or about two million hogs per year. That represents less than two percent of the national hog slaughter. Pennsylvania hog production represents about 3 percent of national hog production.

Clemens noted that Smithfield makes up 19.6 percent of hog slaughter nationwide; IBP makes up 17.6 percent, Swift 9.7 percent, Excel 9.3 percent, and all others, 43.9 percent. Ninety-six percent of the nation's hogs are slaughtered in 32 plants.

Per capital consumption of hogs has "flattened out," said Clemens, at 50 pounds per person per year. And the hog price depression of 1998 didn't lower demand. "I believe we will see a slight increase in demand for pork worldwide" in the coming year, said Clemens.

Hatfield recently closed a plant in Chester and opened one in Springfield, Mass. They recently acquired Wild Bills Foods, a company that makes beef jerky.

The pork processing industry will be directly affected by what happens on Pennsylvania Avenue. Next year is not looking pretty, Clemens said, for the meat industry.

For one thing, it's a presidential election year. Also, government regulations are putting stranglehold on processing plants. Clemens noted that mandatory price reporting, beginning soon, "will push pork prices lower," he said.

Clemens said that packers are "no different from Dutchmen — they want to get (the product) at the lowest price."

And Operation Vanguard, which will allow the government to check on the legal status of plant workers at random, could affect prices. It will be a "national issue," said the Hatfield president. Plant lines could be closed, affecting the ability to process and deliver pork products.

Some plants have already closed lines because of the issue — a lack of qualified workers in these economic boom times.

In the hog price depression of 1998, caused by regional overcapacity (though Hatfield noted overcapacity wasn't the issue for them), losing the Asian markets, and other factors, Smithfield saw record profits. Though many packers lost substantially, Smithfield was able to have record profits as hog producers. How? They forward-purchased grain, forward-sold hogs, and locked in at $10 per head profit on the hogs, Clemens noted.

There were claims about "price fixing" by packers. Impossible, according to Clemens. When he meets with other packers, "we never discuss prices," he said. "First, it's morally wrong and second, it's illegal."

Also, since 1988, sows were producing about 2,034 pounds of meat. That number soared to 2,766 pounds of hog, a 36 percent increase in 10 years time.

In the same period, carcass weights increased from 174 pounds to 185 pounds in 1998. That is a seven percent increase.

Farms are getting larger, though the number is decreasing. "Mega" hog farms were on the increase between 1993-1998. There was a 93 percent increase in hog operations with 5,000 or more hogs. In the same period, there was an 86 percent decrease in hog operations with 999 hogs and less.

Most didn't see the crisis in 1998 building, and couldn't predict the harsh way in which it arrived.

Number of swine farms fell from 350,000 in 1988 to 114,000 in 1998. Sterling Marketing predicts that number could be as low as 50,000 by 2003.

In 1988, there were 62 million hogs on farms. That number in 1998 was significantly less.

In 1988, there were 1,150 hog plants. In 1998, that number decreased to 757.

For Hatfield, the hog price depression incurred losses. "I have never been more uncomfortable in my life," Clemens said. "I never want to go through that market again, and I was on the good side."

More and more, consumers will be going on the Internet to purchase lots of items. Clemens sees a transformed supermarket as a result — and those drastic changes will take place in the next five years.

And as a result of the mandatory price reporting, the price for hogs could fall to the "lowest denominator," he said, not the highest.

About 35 percent of hog suppliers to Hatfield are under contract, Clemens noted. But the industry continues to become like the poultry industry — more vertically integrated by the moment.

Responding to a question by the audience, Clemens noted that he allows his hog procurement department personnel full freedom in selecting producers for contract. He allows them to make the decisions about what producers would be good for contracts for Hatfield.

Clemens noted that he would like to have about 6,000 animals per day under some sort of contract.

Clemens was reminded of "seven words on a tombstone." He said those words were "We never did it that way before." Hog producers are no longer there because "they did not change," he said. "If we don't change, our tombstones are already being engraved."

Tom Leidy, president of Leidy's Inc., Souderton, said the company slaughters from 1,000-1,200 hogs per day (sometimes 1,300 hogs). About one percent of the suppliers are under contract, noted Leidy.

Leidy noted they pay cash every day for livestock.

The key to staying in business is developing niche markets, because their slaughter, compared to other packing houses, is small. They work with more than 100 producers.

Leidy called the decline and crash of the hog prices in 1998 "the worst in the history of the U.S." It was equivalent to a 500-year flood.

But in order to exist, the company has learned to stay competitive.

He noted spending a lot of time with producers through the crisis. Leidy saw a lot of "wet eyes," he said. "I saw the family farm falling away from them."

One thing he noticed was the extremes in production costs from one farmer to the next — as much as 10 cents per pound. Producers need to "stay competitive and watch costs."

Producers have learned to be more efficient. At the same time, Leidy's has developed a "real feel for what the customer and retailer wants."

Each year, Leidy's has to fill more than 500 W-25 tax forms, even though now they have 260 employees at the plant. The constantly revolving labor force is an issue.

Offices of a nearby multinational company, Merck, Sharp, and Dohme, employ about 5,000 people nearly Lansdale. Though that large multinational company is not in the hog processing business, Leidy's must compete with them for laborers.

Leidy's recently added an additional 42,000 square feet of processing space, a "major step for us," he said. And with food safety and other regulations in the forefront of national concerns, it has become "very stressful to produce food in this environment that you have to put up with," Leidy said.

At the forum, three new directors were elected. They are Eugene Nolt, New Holland; Jerry Hostetter, Hostetter Management, Denver; and Brent Hershey, Hershey Ag, Marietta.

Also, Pork Quality Assurance Level III recertification took place at the forum.

Federal Milk Order Reforms To Be Implemented Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In response to President Clinton's signing of the Consolidated Appropriations Act 2000, the current 31 federal milk marketing orders will be consolidated into 11 orders, and several other important reforms, including the minimum pricing of Class I (drinking) milk, will be implemented Jan. 1.

The act requires that the federal order reform final rule be implemented as published in the Federal Register on Sept. 1, 1999, with changes made to the Class I price structure. The act mandates that Class I milk be priced utilizing the Option 1A-Location Specific Class I Differentials contained in the proposed rule published Jan. 30, 1998, as corrected and modified through April 2, 1999. Implementation of the final rule had been delayed because of a temporary restraining order issued by the U.S. District Court for the District of Vermont.

In addition, the legislation requires USDA to conduct a hearing to reconsider the Class III and Class IV milk prices, with the resulting pricing formulas being implemented by Jan. 1, 2001. It also requires that USDA establish a dairy forward pricing pilot program within 90 days of enactment of the legislation. More information on the implementation of these mandates will be available in the future.

The milk marketing order program ensures the fair marketing and pricing of milk. Milk marketing orders classify milk by use, set minimum prices that handlers must pay for each class of milk, and provide for paying average prices to all dairy farmers who supply a marketing order. In the 1996 Farm Bill, Congress mandated that USDA reform the program.

The Federal Milk Marketing Order reform process lasted more than three years and involved the dairy industry, the general public, and academia. The process included detailed regulatory impact, small business, and civil rights analyses and extensive efforts to collect public views. USDA received more than 8,000 comments during the process.

The final rule implementing the reforms will appear in the Dec. 17 Federal Register. For copies of the rule and additional information, contact John F. Borovies, Order Formulation Branch, Dairy Programs, AMS, USDA, Room 2969-S, 1400 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250-6456; telephone (202) 720-6274 or any current market administrator office. The rule and additional background information can be accessed on the web at www.ams.usda.gov/dairy.

New Holland Vegetable Day, Jan. 17

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Food safety, high tunnels, use of compost on vegetables, insect and disease management, trickle irrigation and plasticulture, and new vegetable varieties are just a few of the 14 different topics at the 2000 New Holland Vegetable Day Jan. 17. The meeting is sponsored by the Eastern Lancaster County School District and Lancaster County Cooperative Extension.

There will be something for everyone. If you are interested in marketing you won't want to miss the grower's panel discussing their experiences at "grower's only" markets or Bob Rouse's talk on "Marketing and Merchandising." Greenhouse growers will want to attend the session on "Greenhouse Disease Control" or sit in on the "Transplant Production Tips" session by grower Dave Miller. Dr. Shelby Fleischer from Penn State will discuss "New insecticides and their use."

Recent outbreaks of e. coli. bacteria in vegetables and fruit and how they can be prevented will be the focus of a general session by Anu Rangarajan from Cornell University. Alan MacNab from Penn State will lead the other general session with a discussion of diseases in vegetables. "Field Grown Cut Flowers" and "Strawberry Insect Control" round out the program.

Pesticide credits will be available at some sessions.

The meeting will be Monday, Jan. 17 at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland. Yoder's is located along Rt. 23 at the eastern edge of new Holland. Registration begins at 9 a.m.

Cost for the day is $7 per person if you preregister by Jan. 12, or $12 per person at the door. Lunch is provided.

Holiday Classics Made Easy

White Chocolate Raspberry Cake, Herb-Nut Pilaf, Balsamic & Garlic-Pepper Beef Roast

This year's holiday menu should be extra special—after all, it's the twentieth century finale. Serve a menu of classics in tribute to the past, but give it a contemporary update to welcome the new millennium.

Memorable Main Dishes

A beef roast is the classic holiday main dish, enjoyed both for delicious flavor and easy preparation. It's easy because once the roast is in the oven, no attention is needed. Plus, there is a beef roast for every size gathering, every budget.

- Balsamic & Garlic-Pepper Beef Roast is especially simple. A quick brushing of balsamic vinegar goes on first, then a convenient purchased seasoning blend is pressed onto the roast, and it's ready for the oven.
- A beef rib roast is always an impressive choice for holidays and carving it at the table adds an even more festive flair.

A Side to Remember

Versatile rice can be the beginning of many different and delicious side dishes to complement the holiday menu.

- Classic Herb-Nut Pilaf is a flavorful accompaniment to the beef. Extra long grain white rice is cooked with beef broth, sautéed celery and onions, then accented with bay leaves, pine nuts and parsley. Prepare a double recipe to make sure there's plenty!
- For an elegant side dish, serve Florentine Rice Casserole with the roast. In this streamlined version, cooked rice is combined with prepared Alfredo sauce and frozen creamed spinach, then topped with a pre-shredded cheese blend.

Divine Desserts

Holiday desserts must be spectacular, and when they're homemade, they're extra special. Beginning with a cake or brownie mix and prepared frosting gives you a jump-start.

- White Chocolate Raspberry Cake will dazzle friends and family with luscious flavor and elegant style. Simply add melted white chocolate to both the cake layers and fluffy vanilla frosting for a flavor update. Garnish this grand finale dessert with delicate white chocolate curls, fresh raspberries and a snowy dusting of confectioners' sugar.
- For the brownie lover, Black Forest Brownies are the ultimate holiday treat. Just add almond extract and dried cherries to fudge brownie mix and top with ready-to-spread frosting and almonds.

Herb-Nut Pilaf

Total preparation and cooking time: 35 minutes

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1 cup rice
- 2 cups ready-to-serve beef broth
- 2 bay leaves
- 1/3 cup toasted pine nuts, slivered almonds or coarsely chopped pecans
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley

1 Heat butter in medium saucepan over medium heat until melted. Cook onions and celery in melted butter until tender, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add rice and stir until coated with butter. Add broth and bay leaves. Bring to a boil. Cover and reduce heat to simmer; simmer 20 minutes or until rice is tender.

2. Remove bay leaves. Stir in nuts and parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

Cook's Tip: Recipe may be doubled.

Florentine Rice Casserole

Total preparation and cooking time: 45 minutes

- 1 cup rice
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped portobello mushrooms
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen creamed spinach, thawed
- 1 container (10 ounces) refrigerated Alfredo sauce
- Salt
- Pepper
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Italian cheese blend

1 Heat oven to 350°F.

2. Prepare rice according to package directions including salt.

3 Meanwhile, heat butter in large skillet over medium heat until melted. Cook onions and celery in melted butter until tender-crisp, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add mushrooms and continue cooking 5 minutes. Stir in creamed spinach and Alfredo sauce. Heat through. Add salt and pepper as desired. Stir in cooked rice.

4 Pour into 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake, uncovered, in 350°F oven 20 minutes.

Makes 6 servings.

White Chocolate Raspberry Cake

Total preparation and cooking time: 1-1/4 hours

- 1 package (18.25 ounces) moist deluxe white cake mix
- 3 egg whites
- 1-1/3 cups water
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 5 white chocolate baking squares, (1 ounce each)
- 1 container (16 ounces) creamy vanilla frosting
- 1/2 cup red raspberry seedless jam
- fresh or frozen whole red raspberries
- White chocolate curls (optional)
- Confectioners' sugar

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour two 9-inch round baking pans.
2. Combine cake mix, egg whites, water and oil in large mixing bowl. Beat at low speed with electric mixer until moistened. Beat at medium speed 2 minutes.
3. Place 3 white chocolate squares in microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on high (100% power) 2 to 3 minutes or until chocolate melts, stirring after 1 minute. Stir warm, melted chocolate into cake batter. Pour into pans.
4. Bake 25 to 28 minutes in 350°F oven or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes. Remove from pans. Cool completely.
5. Meanwhile, melt 2 white chocolate squares; stir warm, melted chocolate into frosting. Place one cake layer on serving plate, spread raspberry jam over top of cake. Place second layer on top. Frost top and sides of cake with white chocolate frosting. Garnish with raspberries and white chocolate curls, if desired. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Makes one 9-inch layer cake.

Black Forest Brownies

Total preparation and cooking time: 45 minutes

- 1 package (21 ounces) chewy fudge brownie mix
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup water
- 3/4 cup tart or sweet dried cherries
- 1 container (16 ounces) chocolate frosting
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Grease bottom only of 13x9-inch pan. Combine brownie mix, eggs, oil and water in large bowl; stir until well blended (about 50 strokes). Stir in cherries. Spread in prepared pan. Bake 23 to 25 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool thoroughly.
2. In small bowl, combine frosting and almond extract. Spread over cooled brownies. Garnish with almonds.

Makes 24 brownies.

Balsamic & Garlic-Pepper Beef Roast

Total preparation time: 10 minutes

- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 1 tablespoon prepared garlic-pepper seasoning blend
- Salt

1. Line roasting pan with aluminum foil. Brush surface of beef roast with balsamic vinegar. Press garlic-pepper blend evenly into beef roast.
2. Place roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert ovenproof meat thermometer so tip is centered in thickest part, not resting in fat or touching bone. Roast as directed in chart. After cooking, season beef with salt, if desired.

Seasons one 4 to 8-pound roast.

CHRISTMOOOOOS WISHES
Joyce Bupp

Once again it's Christmastime
Here on the dairy farm
Time to juggle festive things
Between trips to the barn.
While cooking turkey, cookies, pies
And decking out the halls,
Let's hope that Santa not forget
Our "girls" out in the stalls.
Hobbles for her two hind feet
Are what he'll leave for Moxy
At sneaking out beyond the fence
She really is quite foxy.
A puddle there beneath her feet
Betrays the stall of Puffin
To stop that leak from her front teat
She needs some Christmas stuffin'.
Huey needs a new tie snap
She actually believes
It's proper just to wander out
And sack out in the leaves.
For Saucy, now, some first-aid cream
(Though applying it's a feat.)
To soothe and heal the brush-burn
She inflicted on her teat
Bea could use a pedicure
To trim and shape each toe
Kathy wants a lifetime deed
To the first stall in the row.
A faster gear might help one gal
Who drags out every trip.
She dawdles, lingers, pokes about
It figures. Her name's Zip.
Though personalities abound
Please, Santa, leave some special treats
For sweet and gentle Butter.
For all the girls out in the herd
To numerous to mention,
Who daily milk, behave themselves
And rarely need attention
We wish them tasty mounds of feed
Abundance in their ration
Green pastures and a shady spot
Pure luxury. Cow fashion.
Last, Santa, bless our dairymen
The gift of having one day.
And fit each cow out in their barns
With a shut-off switch for Sunday.
.. and the "girls" wish you all a peaceful and blessed holiday season!

Monsters Or Miracles?

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Are genetically modified plants monsters or miracles?

Penn State life sciences professor Nina Fedoroff says that the genetic modification of organisms "has the potential of being the most environmentally conservative way of increasing the food supply as we struggle to slow the runaway train of human population growth with the slower fixes of education and economic development"

Fedoroff, Willaman professor of life sciences and director of the Life Sciences Consortium and Biotechnology Institute, discussed genetically modified plants and foods at a Nov. 30 press briefing for Sen. Kit Bond of Missouri in coordination with the World Trade Organization (WTO) meeting in Seattle.

In her remarks, titled "Genetically Modified Plants. Monsters or Miracles?, Fedoroff compared genetic engineering techniques with traditional plant breeding techniques and discussed the role of genetically modified plants in increasing the world's food supply as well as the risks.

Her full remarks are online at http.//www.psu.edu/ur/oped/federoff.html

We expect Christmas to be a quiet day at our house. But, I cannot say the same for the next day.

On Sunday, we expect a family for lunch and then we hold an open house in the afternoon. For many years we have invited Allen's brothers and my sisters and their families to our home over the Christmas season. Not everyone is able to attend, but there are usually over 30 people.

Our own children will be scattered this year. One in Nebraska, one in Illinois, one in Georgia and one in Indiana. That still leaves two who will be able to visit us. The grandchildren will help to eat some of the cookies that I've baked. There are 17 kids this year as I started to pack boxes for my Amish neighbors.

As my husband awaits his January hip operation, he is not able to do much work. But, he keeps busy cracking black walnuts for my cookies. We will give some as gifts together with jars of jelly that I made this summer and fall. There are jars of quince, peach, elderberry, and raspberry. Other years we bought cheese to share as we thought that was appropriate for a dairy farm.

This year, as usual, we put our tree on an old blanket chest in front of a bay window. That way we can enjoy it together with our neighbors as the lights shine on the porch too. We are invited to see the grandchildren open their gifts before they leave for their other grandmother's house. They usually receive many gifts compared to the few that our children got. But who is to say they appreciate them any more than the one or two gifts that our children, really, really wanted.

Don't Diet — Change Habits

How can I keep my New Year's resolution to lose weight and keep if off after the diet is over?

Any good dietitian will tell you that the problem lies in splitting your life into "diet" and "non-diet" times Your diet is what you eat, not a weight-loss regimen

If you consume fewer calories than you expend, then you'll lose weight. If you consume more than you expend, you'll gain weight. The amounts vary with different people because of differences in metabolism (Metabolism refers to how quickly your body burns calories.) But the overarching principle should be to eat a balanced diet and exercise enough to maintain your ideal weight.

The biggest complication comes into play when you first start losing weight. The fact is, bigger bodies burn more calories For example, take a situation with two people who have a similar amount of muscle mass (muscle burns more calories than fat) If they both sit in lounge chairs and watch TV for two hours, the heavier person will burn more calories just sitting there than the lighter-weight person

That means if you lose 10 or 20 pounds and don't build muscles at the same time, all of a sudden you need fewer calories just to keep your heart beating, your blood flowing and your lungs breathing So, if you go back to your old eating habits without changing your exercise habits, you'll gain that weight back easily.

For example, a 150-pound woman whose level of activity is classified as "very light" can eat about 2,100 calories a day to maintain her weight If that woman loses 20 pounds, her body needs only 1,820 calories a day to maintain her new 130-pound weight If she goes off her diet and adds that 280 calories back into her daily routine without increasing muscle mass or activity levels, she'll gain that weight back.

This time, make things simple. Eat at least five fruits and vegetables a day, and exercise for a half-hour, three times a week. The fruits and vegetables will fill you up, helping you avoid higher-calories and less nutrient-dense foods. And the exercise will help you burn extra calories to take any extra pounds off.

Last Minute Christmas Touches To Make

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — "I remember we all went to Grandma's home the night before Christmas. Before we went to bed, we gathered around the table and made potato candy," writes a reader.

"The most fun was dipping the candy into chocolate to coat. The grownups prefer dark chocolate coating, but the children liked the milk chocolate."

A half a century later, that grandchild is now establishing memories with her own grandchildren.

Marsha Kuhns remembers her Grandma Zook always made opera creams. It's a tradition that Marcia is passing on to her children in Barville.

The creamy candy melts in your mouth and keeps you wanting more. Often, Marsha, her mom, and aunt get together to make the opera creams during the holidays.

Here is her recipe and several other last minute cooking ideas for you to try.

Opera Creams

1½ cups sugar
1 cup cream
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons cocoa

Combine ingredients and cook until soft ball stage. Let cool without stirring, then beat with mixer until very light in color. Drop on waxed paper by a teaspoon.

Marsha Kuhns

Potato Candy

½ cup mashed potatoes
4 cups powdered sugar
½ cup peanut butter

Mix warm mashed potatoes with sugar. Roll out into oblong shape and spread with peanut butter. Roll up like jelly roll and cut into slices. Dip into chocolate.

Honey Mustard Pretzels

2 pounds broken sourdough pretzels

Break pretzels as fine as possible into a large bowl. Mix together:

1 cup vegetable oil
½ cup salad mustard
½ cup honey
¼ cup sour cream and onion powder, if desired

Pour mixture over broken pretzels and mix thoroughly with spatula trying to make sure every pretzel is coated.

Spread coated pretzels in a pan. Bake at 200 degrees, stirring every 15-20 minutes for approximately two hours or until done.

Delicious while warm or cool and store in an airtight container until ready to serve.

Napkin Rings

Looking for a last minute touches for the holiday table?

For a napkin ring, Betty Light, Lebanon, suggests taking a plain wooden ring and embroidery floss in Christmas colors. Glue beginning of floss to ring and wrap floss around ring until covered. Fastens with a dap of glue.

Betty also uses empty paper towel rolls to make napkin rings. Glue wrapping paper or fabric to outside of roll. Cut roll apart every half inch. Cut a strip of matching paper or fabric to fit inside the ring and glue. Slip napkins through rings. Decorate by slipping a sprig of holly or pine inside and tie with ribbon.

Personalize Candles

To decorate candles, Betty said, "Take a store-purchased candle, and use a sparkle glue stick to draw designs on the outside of the candle.

Or, heat candle gently with a craft heater until wax is softened slightly, stamp design into wax and let cool.

Marsha Kuhns, her Aunt Carolyn Espy, and mother Wanda Yoder carry on the family tradition of making opera creams.

Simple Children's Activities

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Looking for some simple children's activities to do with your children or grandchildren during the holidays?

Need some last minute ideas for table favors or napkin rings?

Here are some ideas from Betty Light, Lebanon, and other readers.

Make Snow Globes

Snow globes hold special fascination for children. Now teach children to make their own.

Search the house for small plastic figurines. Find an empty baby food jar lid. Place two tablespoons glitter inside the jar, then fill to the top with water. Use glue to secure the lid to the top of the jar.

Turn upside down and watch Jack Frost visit the scene. Add other decorations to jar, if desired.

That's A Wrap

Since kids enjoy doing things their own way, let them create their own special wrapping paper for the gifts they're giving this season. Get a long roll of plain paper or use brown paper bags. Give the kids crayons, markers, rubber stamps, and paints. For a more festive touch, use a piece of evergreen from the tree as a paintbrush.

Pop!

Blowing bubbles is a favorite way to entertain kids during the summer, but have you ever tried it in winter?

When the temperature dips below freezing, head outside and blow bubbles. Children will be fascinated to see the bubbles freeze in midair, then disappear in a puff of powder.

Holiday Puzzles

Take the front cover off store-bought holiday cards and cut into jigsaw-like pieces, creating as many pieces as appropriate for your child's age. For an added challenge, cut up several cards and mix the pieces together before trying to solve the puzzle.

Set The Table

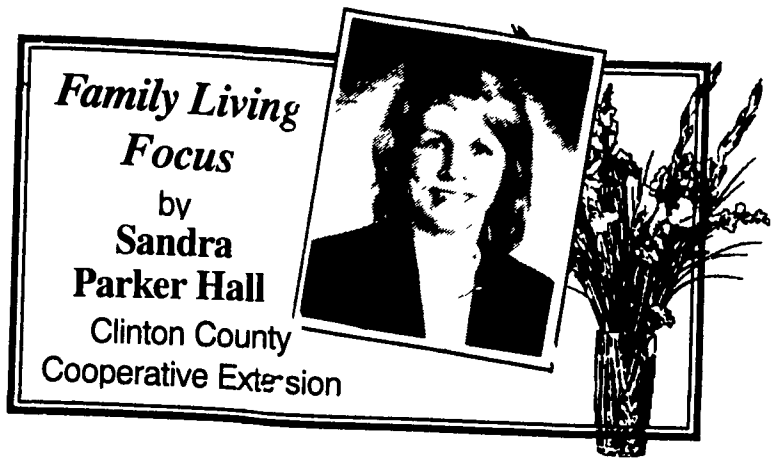
After reading your holiday magazines, pass them along to children. Help them cut out seasonal pictures and words and glue to heavy paper or poster board. Cover with clear adhesive paper, laminate, and use as place mats for holiday dinners.

Knock, Knock

Turn a bedroom door into a gift-wrapped decoration by covering it completely with large paper and decorating with markers, crayons, etc. Attach greeting cards and small holiday toys to create three-dimensional effect.

To make opera creams, Marsha beats the mixture until light in color.

Betty Light said children can help make table favors, napkin rings, and other holiday gifts with things found around the house.



A Special Child

This is a very special time of year as we see the delight in children's faces and the glow in adults. This holiday season, I'd like to share with you the story of a family and their special child as written by Cindy the Mother.

"My special child. Special — being of a distinct of particular kind or character; particular, individual, or unique and unique being without a like or equal; single in its kinds; rare. This is my child; like every child he is special in his very own way. He has his own individual needs, as do all children.

"Our wait for this special child was a long one. It took us 11 years with lots of trying and then lots of paperwork. Then one cold December day in 1996 the phone call came. We have a boy for you; do you want us to send pictures of him?"

"A son, a special child just for us."

"The journey began. The pictures arrived in two days, and all that saw them called him "cheeks," because his big round chubby cheeks were his most prominent features."

"Then came more paperwork, FedEx, trips to Philadelphia and New York, phone calls, letters and lots of waiting. Happy, anxious waiting and in April of 1997 our day finally came. We traveled for 24 hours half-way around the world for our special child. It was the trip of a lifetime.

"Our son's name was Nguyen, Bao Hoal (we call him Karl) and he was born in Central Vietnam, the part that saw so much action and Agent Orange in the Vietnam war. Being from a third world country, and having a mother who lived in the rural mountains with no real access to prenatal care, we wondered what this blessing would hold for us.

"We went to the coordinator's home for the first time and met our very special child. At six months old, he was not really rolling over, not sitting up yet, and not eating any solid food. Nor did he really like to try.

"All his visits from the doctors in the orphanage said he was fine. Healthy...

"He was a very happy little boy, with a great personality The natives said he was dark because his mother drank coffee, would be bright because of the shape and color of his eyes, and lucky because we had adopted him

"We are the lucky ones, and he is Our Blessing!

"We had a great time in one of the most beautiful countries in the world. After three weeks and lots of politics, we were on our way home to begin our lives' journey with our very special child

"Our first visit to the doctors was not fun but necessary They ran every test imaginable; all was fine. We would have to do some more tests in six months.

"That's when everything stared. Karl had a reaction to one of the shots. Then he developed a high fever and went into a seizure; they need to do a spinal tap right away.

"Once again everything came back fine. Seizures caused by fever will happen. Karl was developing along the developmental charts for the most part except for his speech.

"We heard 'just a few more months,' and a few more.

"Well, this mom didn't wait any longer and contacted infant evaluation when he was 2-1/2 years old, and he is now receiving speech therapy

"In the meantime he had another seizure and this one lasted 25 minutes. After a trip in the 'oowee truck' to the emergency room we found out nothing. It was back to Danville for more tests, these also turned out fine, only febrile seizures that he should outgrow by the time he is six or seven. 'But keep this medicine with you at all times just in case he has another seizure,' the doctor said."

Now it is time for his three-year check up and time to consider having his tonsils out

'We decided to go along with it to help his speech and breathing, and infections However, the pre-surgery test showed a problem with his bleeding and clotting times? So we went back to Danville to see another specialist to once again find out everything was fine We see now that nothing about having a child is ever easy"

Cindy and her family have learned quickly that parenting takes a tremendous amount of time and energy, and that as much as we prepare, we can never be ready for the unexpected

On a professional note Cindy adds, "Each child comes with his or her own special needs, some medical, some physical, some emotional, and some developmental. Each day is a journey, each day holds in store things unseen. Our special children have so much to offer if we accept and expect that they can do all things, in their time, in their way."

I will never forget when I first started working with children who had special needs. I was told that one would never walk or talk and that one would be inside his shell forever, there is nothing we can do with this one

I felt bad because the professionals had already given up on the children I believed that there was hope for each of these children and with guided freedom and the chance to do and experience things was what they needed, and to be exposed to all the world has to offer

The good news is the children have proven their reports wrong They are special and deserve admiration for the strides they have made If we stop comparing them to the 'NORM,' they and we do much better The 'NORM' is made up of a small group of children looked at for a short period of time for a specific task We all know if a child is having a bad day that it will offset the balance

We all need to open the doors for our special children and give them what they need as early as possible. We now know so much more about brain development and how we must start early to keep the windows of opportunity open.

If you have concerns about your child be sure to ask the professionals. You know your child the best.

Remember be proud of your child and be his or her advocate But most of all to love your child for who they are

Trans Fats Saturated With Hydrogen

What makes the "trans fats" so bad for you?

Most nutritionists don't believe there's any "good" food or "bad" food — or food component — out there. But there is a reason trans fats have received so much attention lately, and why you'll probably see them listed soon on "Nutrition Facts" labels along with saturated fats.

Trans fats are fatty acids that appear in "partially hydrogenated" fats. Partially hydrogenated fats start out as vegetable oil, or unsaturated fats, and are processed to make them more stable and more solid at room temperature. This process actually adds hydrogen to the oil — that's what "hydrogenated" means. And "saturated" means the fatty acid molecule is saturated with hydrogen molecules — saturated fatty acids have as much hydrogen as the molecule can hold.

All this makes trans fatty acids, which really start out as unsaturated fats in the body. Although some early research indicated that trans fats might not be as bad — and might even help reduce the risk of heart disease — more recent research indicates just the opposite.

Much more research needs to be done, but in the meantime, it can be important to know just how much trans fat you're consuming.

That's why the Food and Drug Administration proposed in mid-November that the amount of trans fats in food be listed in the Nutrition Facts panel on food labels.

If the proposal is adopted after the required 90-day comment period, you can expect to see the "saturated fat" amount listed on the food label increase for foods that contain more than a half-gram of trans fat per serving. That's because the amount of trans fats in the food would be added to the actual saturated fat level; an asterisk would refer label-readers to a notation that the amount of saturated fat includes so many grams of fat per serving would not be required to get a reliable measurement of such a small amount.

Trans fats are used to make many types of foods, such as baked goods, fried foods, and some margarine.

Don't Invite BAC To Your Home For The Holidays

LANCASTER (Lanc. Co.) — When celebrating the holidays, be sure to keep an eye out for an uninvited guests—BAC!—as in bacteria that can cause foodborne illness.

Many people like to invite friends and family over for a holiday feast so it is important to Fight BAC! and practice safe food handling techniques when entertaining during the holiday season.

"Dinner parties and buffets are always very popular around the holidays," said Nancy Wiker, extension agent. "Foods that are left out for long periods can be an ideal setting for bacteria to multiply. During this busy time of year, people must remember to take special precautions to keep food safe."

There are four basic food safety steps to help reduce risk of foodborne illness· CLEAN, wash hands and surfaces often; SEPARATE, don't cross-contaminate; COOK, cook to proper temperatures; and CHILL, refrigerate promptly. When preparing buffets and party platters, be sure to practice these steps along with the tips below for a save and BAC!teria-free holiday festivity.

• Always wash your hands with hot, soapy water before and after handling food. Keep your kitchen, dishes and utensils clean too. Clean up kitchen surfaces with a clean cloth or paper towels.

• Always serve food on clean plates – never put cooked food on plates that previously held raw meat, poultry or seafood. Keep raw meat, poultry and seafood away from fruits and vegetables so juices will not cross-contaminate foods.

• Cook foods thoroughly to safe temperatures (Roast beef to 145° for medium rare and 160°F for medium; whole poultry to 180°F, poultry breasts to 170°F and ground poultry to 165°F; all other meat, fish and ground red meats to 160°F)

• Keep hot foods and cold foods cold. Hot foods can be kept hot in chafing dishes, crock pots and warming trays should be 140°F or warmer. Cold foods can be kept cold by placing dishes in bowls of ice and should be 40°F or colder.

• Arrange and serve food on several small platters rather than one large tray. Replace empty platters rather than adding fresh food to a dish that has already been used.

• Don't let foods sit at room temperature for more than 2 hours. Keep track of how long foods have been sitting on the buffet table and discard anything left out for 2 hours or more.

• Promptly refrigerate and store all leftovers in small, shallow containers. Most cooked dishes can keep for up to 3-4 in the refrigerator. Reheat thoroughly to 165°F when food is hot and steaming.

Fight BAC!® is a national consumer education campaign sponsored by the Partnership for Food Safety Education, a Washington, DC-based coalition of industry, government and consumer groups. The campaign is designed to teach consumers about the importance of foodborne illness.

For more information on practicing safe food handling and fighting foodborn bacteria during the holiday season visit www.fightbac.org or call 717-394-6851.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Brenda Houser, Middletown, wanted recipes to make cookies that taste like those served at Shady Maple: Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling. Joy Manges, Wantage, N.J., did not send recipes but she said the cookies are available from Kay's, Baker and Baker, Elk Grove Village, IL 60007.

ANSWER — Marilyn Baumert, Herndon, wanted a recipe for egg nog that tastes similar to that made by Turkey Hill, Farmland, or Swiss Miss. Thanks to a reader for sending a recipe.

Egg Nog

4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar
4 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg whites
Nutmeg

Beat egg yolks. Add sugar. Add milk and vanilla extract. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold in. Pour into tall glasses. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes 4 servings.

Flavored Vinegars More Safe Than Oils

A friend of mine makes homemade flavored vinegars. Is it safe?

Actually, flavored vinegars are much more safe than homemade flavored oils. Because of vinegar's acidity, the organism that causes botulism can't grow in it and form toxins. But make sure your friend only puts one or two sprigs of herbs into the vinegar. If she adds too much, the acidity of the vinegar could be affected, possibly making the product unsafe.

First, make sure the bottles are sterilized. As long as you're working at altitudes of less than 1,000 feet, you can sterilize the bottles by putting them right-side up in the rack in a boiling water canner, covering with hot water to an inch above their tops, and boiling for 10 minutes. You should also pasteurize the vinegar itself by pouring it into the sterilized bottles and putting them back in the hot-water to a temperature between 140 degrees and 160 degrees.

Popular flavorings for vinegar include green onion, garlic, ginger, tarragon, basil, chives, mint, or a combination of herbs. For every two cups of vinegar, use a half-cup of crushed fresh herbs rinsed and patted dry, one tablespoon of dried herbs, two large cloves of garlic or eight small green onions. Put the flavorings in a small cheesecloth bag and let it steep in the vinegar. Garlic will flavor the vinegar in about a day; other flavorings take about four days to make their presence known. The longer you keep them in, the stronger the flavor. When you remove the cheesecloth bag, keep the bottles corked or capped, and make sure they're stored out of direct sunlight. Sunlight can destroy the flavor, acidity and color of the vinegar.

Some people will still try flavoring oils at home, but food safety experts recommend against trying it. A sealed container of oil offers an oxygen-free environment with just the right pH level that enable some bacteria – like the type that causes botulism – to thrive Herbs used to flavor oil – or the fingers that place the herbs in the oil – could contaminate the whole bottle. Even if the container isn't tightly sealed, anaerobic bacteria can still multiply because the thickness and texture of the oil prevents oxygen from getting to the herb.

Commercially prepared flavored oils are safe because manufacturers sterilize everything Unfortunately, that's not always possible at home

Amanda, Kasandra, Lydia Celebrate Christmas

The Christmas stockings are hung at the stairs banister. Peeking over the top are the Hale-Cooper sisters, Lydia, Kasandra, and Amanda.

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

Once upon a time there were three sisters named Amanda, Kasandra, and Lydia who grew very excited about Christmas.

Amanda, who was eight and the oldest, hung her stocking highest on the banister of the stairs. Kasandra, who was seven, hung her stocking next to Amanda's. Lydia, who was six and a real live wire, everyone said, hung her stocking last, near the bottom of the stairs.

Now Amanda happened to be the only person in her family who had a birthday near to Christmas Day. It was December 30. Each year, her grandma said, "Amanda, you get to choose the food for Christmas dinner."

So Amanda said to her grandmother, "Grandma, I want you to serve lasagna and spinach."

When they heard Amanda ask for spinach, everyone moaned. Her relatives could not understand why Amanda loved the taste of spinach, but her grandmother was kind enough to make things the others liked, too

Then came the day, several months before Christmas that Amanda got sick She got very, very sick. The doctor who examined Amanda said she must go to a huge hospital for the children in a big city, away from Kasandra, Lydia and her school friends

Not even the doctors knew how Amanda had caught HSP or Henoch-Schonlein Purpura The danger was Amanda's kidneys could be damaged For 10 days she stayed in the hospital.

When she grew well enough to come home a few weeks before Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, Amanda was not allowed to eat lasagna. She couldn't eat many of the foods that she had liked before she got sick. She is not allowed to have too much sodium

Although the disease itself had left her body, she will need to be examined for two more years to make sure the kidney organs are working.

So on Thanksgiving Day, instead of a big, fat brown turkey, Amanda's mom made salmon and rolls with honey for everyone in the family.

Kasandra and Lydia, were not happy to give up pizza, tacos, and good-tasting stuff they loved to eat.

Before they knew it, Kasandra and Lydia learned to read food labels in the supermarket. They checked them for sodium content.

When Kasandra and Lydia ate goodies at parties, they remembered their sister and said. "We wish Amanda could have some too."

Meanwhile, Amanda, Kasandra, and Lydia had already trimmed the Christmas tree. They knew Christmas was just around the corner, but there was a problem.

The house they lived in had not suitable chimney for Santa to come the whole way down.

"The chimney ends in the attic," they cried. "We are afraid Santa will fall through the roof."

A grownup friend who was visiting said, "Now girls, if Santa lands in the attic, I am sure he, somehow, will find the Christmas tree in the living room.

"Try not to worry," the friend added, reassuringly.

"But we have mouse traps up there," the sisters cried, again. "We don't want Santa getting caught in a mouse trap!"

Oh, dear.

About that time, the sisters saw their pet cat, Kyla, asleep on her comfy bed by the Christmas tree. The cat's job was rodent control, except, now other things were going on in the cat's life.

One day, Amanda, Kasandra, and Lydia noticed Kyla was different. The cat needed more rest than usual. The girls were suspicious.

"Mother, what's wrong with Kyla?" they asked. "She isn't acting right."

"Children, guess what?" said their mom. "Kyla is becoming a mother Her kittens should be born on Christmas.

"Yippee!" the sisters shoured.

"Can we keep them, Mother?" Can we keep them all?" they begged.

"Girls, girls, settle down," answered their mom. "We cannot keep all the babies. Perhaps, in the neighborhood, there are children who would like a pet. Don't worry, we will find good homes for them."

Meanwhile, with so many exciting things happening, Amanda, Kasandra and Lydia thought about holiday goodies.

"Mother, what about the Christmas cookies?"

"I am going to make something we never had," said their mom, looking up from the cookbook with recipes for special diets like Amanda's.

Several nights later, the house was dark where all were fast asleep in their beds, when a great surprise came – early.

Their mother awakened the sisters at 5 o'clock in the morning to tell them the news.

The sisters were in awe when they saw, in their own little manger, four kitties born to Kyla, 10 days before Christmas.

"Mom," they whispered softly, "It reminds me of the manger in Bethlehem where Baby Jesus was born" Amanda said

"Thank you Jesus, for our kitties, and for giving us Christmas," they all prayed

Pictured at their Christmas tree with Kyla the cat in her box, from left are Amanda, Kasandra, and Lydia Hale-Cooper. On Christmas Day, Kyla will have kittens and the three sisters are very excited.

Don't assume the red and white stripes of a candy cane are two colors twisted around each other — the distinctive pattern is only on the surface of the sweet candy treat
Candy canes have two main ingredients granulated sugar and corn syrup Candy makers cook these two ingredients to 230 degrees Fahrenheit, then pump the mixture through a fine screen (The high temperatures change the granulated sugar into a liquid) The mixture is heated again to 290 F in a special cooker that removes most of the candy's excess heat and moisture
Next, the batch is cooled on a slab, and peppermint flavoring is added Then, candy makers use a machine to stretch and pull the taffy-like mix The stretching changes the golden brown candy mix into a silky white color Finally, the candy is shaped into a 100-pound log that's about 1 foot long and 2 feet wide
Now, for the color candy makers make another batch exactly as above, except instead of pulling this mix they add colorings They roll out and cut the colored mix into small stripes and place them on the outer layer of the satin white log (It's easier to work with a log this size than when it's a quarter-inch wide!)
To change the log into normal-sized candy canes you buy in stores, the candy makers put the log on a heated roller The roller softens the candy so it can be stretched to size through a special machine The candy rope is then twisted, cut to length, and wrapped Finally, the candy cane is given its distinctive crook — making it the perfect shape to hang on a Christmas tree branch!
Scientifically yours,

Holiday Thoughts

With the holidays come the many gatherings of family and friends While this may be a source of great enjoyment for some, it can also be a time filled with stress and anxiety over past grudges and conflicts It may be helpful to think of the lines in this poem when faced with difficult situations

I Know Something Good About You

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folks we meet would say
I know something good about you.

And then treat you just that way

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy
If each hand clasp, warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance,
I know something good about you?

Wouldn't things here be pleasant,
If the good that's in us all,
Were the only things about us
That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If we'd praise the good we see?
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
This fine way of thanking, too
You know something good about me,
I know something good about you

Protect Yourself

HARRISBURG — (Dauphin Co) — The holiday season is traditionally a time of giving to persons who are less fortunate To help Pennsylvanians in their charitable giving, Rep Thomas E Armstrong (R-98) said the Department of State has established a Web site profiling more than 6,000 charitable organizations operating in the state

The site, which can be accessed at www dos state.pa us, lists how much each charity spends on fund raising and administrative costs, and how much they actually spend on the cause they support

The following tips can help protect against charitable fraud

- Never give to a charity without knowing anything about it
- Investigate and find out where the money goes before agreeing to contribute
- If the organization is collecting contributions in person, always ask to see identification
- Never donate over the phone to an unfamiliar organization
- Find out if the charity is registered with the Department of State, either by checking the Web site or by calling the bureau directly
- Contact the bureau if you suspect fraud or believe a soliciting organization is not legitimate.

Armstrong said Pennsylvania has thousands of reputable and worthwhile charitable organizations serving as an important bridge to ensure contributions help those who truly need assistance.

Persons without Internet access can learn more about a charity by calling the Bureau of Charitable Organizations toll-free at 1-800-732-0999

National Cookbook Features Favorites From Farm Families

LOU ANN GOOD

BELLVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — "Congratulations, Mrs. Yoder, you are a winner."

Sounds like a telemarketer. Right?

That's what Wanda Yoder thought when she answered the phone recently. She was ready to hang up when she heard the call came from Land O' Lakes' in St. Paul, Minn.

Because she and her husband J. Loren ship the milk from their 70-head Holstein herd in Mifflin County to Land O' Lakes, Wanda thought she'd better stay on the line.

The caller informed Wanda that she was a finalist in the search for recipes to be printed in Land O' Lakes "American Heritage Cookbook."

Still, it was a shock to receive the recently released cookbook. Wanda's recipe for Fruit Pudding Dessert is pictured among the 50 recipes in the beautifully illustrated cookbook.

When the Yoders first heard about the contest, Loren encouraged Wanda — a great cook — to send in a recipe.

Busy with other duties, Wanda kept procrastinating. On the day Loren left for a Land O' Lakes director's meeting, Wanda quickly scribbled a recipe and sent it with him then forgot about the contest until the call.

Typical of her cooking style, Wanda is always thinking up novel ways to incorporate dairy products into her cooking. As a dairy farmer and as a board member for Pennsylvania Dairy Princess & Promotional Services, Wanda realizes the importance of touting dairy products.

She doctored up a basic recipe by adding sour cream and orange juice to give it some zip.

According to Jeff Swanson, booksellers.

Wanda Yoder holds a copy of "Land O' Lakes American Heritage Cookbook," which includes 50 time-honored recipes from farm families.

about 400 entries were received from farm families. Home economists selected 250 to prepare in their test kitchens. The entries were tasted and compared, with the 50 making the final grade to be included in the cookbook. Each recipe features a scrumptious photo of the finished mouth-watering dish.

In addition to sharing the ingredients and step-by-step directions, many tried-and-true recipes are brought to life with actual profiles and anecdotes from the farm families who submitted them. Each tale tells a little bit of the story behind the recipe.

"Land O' Lakes American Heritage Cookbook" is divided into four recipe sections: snacks and beverages, main dish suppers, veggies, breads and sides, and sweets and desserts.

The cookbook is available at national and independent bookstores, Cenex Farm Co-ops, or online at popular Internet

Published by Creative Publishing International, the hardcover book with jacket (11x8½ -inches), 96 pages 100 photos/illustrations sells for $15.95.

Here is Wanda's recipe:

FRUIT PUDDING DESSERT

1 cup sour cream
1 cup milk
¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
3-ounce package instant vanilla pudding
20-ounce can pineapple chunks, drained
11-ounce can mandarin orange segments, drained
2 medium tart red apples, cored, chopped
1 banana, sliced

Combine sour cream, milk, orange juice concentrate, and instant pudding in large serving bowl. Mix until smooth.

Add fruit; mix lightly to coat. Makes 12 servings (⅔ cup each).

Dairy Promo Granted $70,000

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has awarded at $70,000 grant to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, to support educational efforts under the Pennsylvania Agricultural Product Promotion Matching Grant Program

"The Department of Agriculture's matching grant program was created to generate greater awareness of Pennsylvania's diverse agricultural commodities," said Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. "This grant further assists efforts to promote Pennsylvania's great dairy industry," he said

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program used the grant to fund a project called "The Dairy Difference Meeting the Needs of Pennsylvania School Children." The project was conducted in order to increase milk and dairy product sales at the school level

Christmas Is For Giving

Christmas will be brighter and happier for many people because of the generosity of these two couples. From left are Harold and Peggy Erb with Carol and Larry Huber.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Christmas is for giving, not receiving," a Manheim farm family repeatedly told their children.

Now the children are grown. But the lessons their parents instilled in them cause them to share generously with those in need.

Every Christmas season, the children who now have families of their own, return to the family farm to help their parents pack 12 boxes with all the fixings needed for a traditional holiday meal: turkey, corn, peas, applesauce, potatoes, cranberry sauce, biscuit, and pie.

Also living in the Manheim area are two couples, Carol and Larry Huber and Harold and Peggy Erb.

Carol and Peggy shop until they drop — not for themselves, not even for family and friends — but for people they have never met. For about eight years, the two sisters have been selecting useful items needed in the home. They fill from nine to 15 laundry bags with items such as kettles, teatowels, pot holders, cooking utensils, plastic buckets, bathroom tissue, and so forth.

With their husbands, the sisters prepare the packages for delivery, but neither they nor the anonymous farm family know the families who receive the food boxes and the gifts. Instead the boxes are distributed through the Expanded Food and Nutrition Educational Program (EFNEP) adminstered through Penn State Extension. EFNEP advisers work with low-income families on a daily basis to teach them how use limited food resources to prepare nourishing meals. The advisers distribute the gifts to people who will most benefit from the items.

Chris Valentin, EFNEP adviser who works with an educational tutoring program for drop-out moms, said that one of her clients broke down and cried when presented the gifts.

"She needed the practical gifts and was overwhelmed to receive them," Valentin said.

"This is a critical time of the year for many low-income families," said Anita Rhawn, who has worked with EFNEP for 18 years. She considers it a privilege to be able to deliver the food and gift items to needy families.

"This job doesn't give any reason to quit," said Rhawn. "The people receive the boxes of food and the gifts with great joy and gratefulness." Rhawn continues to keep in touch with many families long after her stint in teaching them cooking and consumer skills has ended.

"I still stop in to see one of the first persons I taught 18 years ago," Rhawn said, "It's been satisfying to watch her go off public assistant, get a job, buy car, and now own her own home."

Tatyan Pereyaslav is one of this year's recipients. She immigrated from Russia. Her husband left her after she and one of her sons were permanently handicapped from a car accident three years ago. Through the EFNEP program, Pereyaslav's four boys, ages 5, 8, 10, and 13, have been taught how to incorporate more milk in their diets and prepare American food favorites. Russian families do not give presents because the country does not celebrate Christmas. However, Russian Christians often meet together for a covered dish meal.

Although the EFNEP program is in many counties and in many states, Valentin said, "I'm glad to work in Lancaster County because so many people are really forthcoming in giving to people who aren't as well off as themselves. We have more people in this county who help others than The EFNEP programs do in other counties."

The advisers are grateful for the Hubers, Erbs, and the Manheim farm family who generously donate food and gifts year after year.

Although these families don't have the pleasure of watching the families receive the gifts, the donors receive their own rewards.

"We have such fun choosing the items," Carol said.

The anonymous farm family said, "We know there are hungry people who don't have what we have. We like sharing because God gave his greatest gift — Jesus Christ — to us, so in return we give to others."

"Because of those who share, Christmas will be brighter and happier for those in need," said Brenda Stallman, another EFNEP adviser.

Are Energy Bars All They're Cracked Up To Be?

Sports or energy bars are no longer just for endurance athletes. They're being marketed to soccer moms, busy kids, and just about anyone who wants a "pick-me-up" snack Are they really the nutritious snack they claim to be, or just an expensive version of a candy bar?

That depends on the one you choose The original sports bars were chewy, high carbohydrate bars that tasted bland and left a metallic aftertaste from the added vitamins and minerals. Today, many taste more like candy than "nutritional" bars In some cases, this is because of perfecting formulations. In others, it's because they truly are more like candy. What should you look for in a sports bar?

Size: Sports bars vary from just over an ounce to nearly four ounces. In general, the larger the bar, the more calories it will provide.

Fat and calories: The original sports bars were low in fat. Not all of today's bars are Look for one that provides less than 30 percent of total calories from fat and no more than 5 grams of fat per bar. If you're watching calories, choose bars that provide less than 250 calories per bar.

Carbohydrate and fiber: The original sports bars provided 60 to 70 percent of calories from a mix of simple and complex carbohydrates Today, many bars follow the trendy 40-30-30 ration: 40 percent of calories from carbohydrates, 30 percent from protein, and 30 percent from fat. Either probably works as long as fiber is included in the mix. Look for a bar that provides at least 3 grams of fiber.

Protein: Protein is "in," and the newest bars are packing plenty of it. In a recent survey reported by Environmental Nutrition, protein content ranged from 2 to 27 grams per bar among 28 bars evaluated. Some protein is good, but too much of it is hard on the kidneys It's best to choose a bar with no more than 20 grams or 30 percent total calories from protein.

Vitamins, minerals, herbs, and other stuff: Sports bars traditionally come fortified with vitamins and minerals. While it may be argued that you could just as easily take a vitamin-mineral supplement, as long as the level of fortification doesn't exceed 100 percent and you don't eat too many sports bars, the extra vitamins and minerals probably aren't an issue As for herbs, bee pollen, and other special ingredients that may be added to bars, the amount added generally isn't enough to have either a positive or negative effect.

Cost. Sports bars are not cheap. And they won't make you leaner, stronger, or faster on their own. In fact, there are no magic ingredients that can pump up muscle or enhance performance without proper training. On the other hand, sports bars are a convenient, quick source of high carb energy They're a better choice than a candy bar when you're running low on fuel and your day doesn't allow time to reload between events.

One final note: Be sure you wash down your sports bar with plenty of water. On the label of almost every bar on the market is a recommendation for drinking at least 6 ounces of water with the bar. Most bars are very concentrated. Water aids in the absorption of the nutrients in the bar. It also helps protect against dehydration, a major concern among athletes at all levels and common cause of impaired performance.

3 Easy Steps to Roasting Beef

1. Heat oven to temperature specified in chart
2. Place roast (straight from refrigerator), fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan Season roast, as desired Insert ovenproof meat thermometer so tip is centered in thickest part of roast, not resting in fat or touching bone Do not add water Do not cover
3. Roast according to chart Transfer roast to carving board, tent loosely with aluminum foil Let roast stand 15 minutes (Temperature will continue to rise 5° to 10°F to reach desired doneness and roast will be easier to carve)

BEEF CUT	OVEN TEMPERATURE (preheated)	WEIGHT (pounds)	APPROXIMATE TOTAL COOKING TIME (based on meat removed directly from refrigerator)	REMOVE ROAST FROM OVEN WHEN INTERNAL TEMPERATURE REACHES
Rib Roast* (small end, chine bone removed)	350°F	4 to 6 (2 ribs)	Medium rare 1-3/4 to 2-1/4 hours	135°F
			Medium 2 1/4 to 2-3/4 hours	150°F
		6 to 8 (2 to 4 ribs)	Medium rare 2-1/4 to 2-1/2 hours	135°F
			Medium 2-3/4 to 3 hours	150°F
Ribeye Roast (small end)	350°F	3 to 4	Medium rare 1-1/2 to 1-3/4 hours	135°F

Round Tip Roast	325°F	3 to 4	Medium rare 1-3/4 to 2 hours	140°F
			Medium 2-1/4 to 2-1/2 hours	155°F
		4 to 6	Medium rare 2 to 2-1/2 hours	140°F
			Medium 2-1/2 to 3 hours	155°F

It is not necessary to use a rack in roasting pan; rib bones form a natural rack*

Medium rare doneness = 145°F final meat temperature after 15 minutes standing time
Medium doneness = 160°F final meat temperature after 15 minutes standing time.

It is about 30 years old but the control box and motor is less than half that age. It never ran dry of oil and when the system was checked some years ago, the pump blades were disassembled and reported to be like new. Weaner also has pail, heat, shells, stall cocks, and other assorted equipment, including a section of pipe with the stall cocks mounted. Was used daily until this spring. Would like $300-$350. If interested, write to Weaner at 145 Weaner Rd., Gettysburg, PA 13725.

ADADC Targets Hispanic Sales

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — As part of ADADC's effort to reach the Hispanic community, two new commercials have been added to the fall lineup in key markets. Using the tagline "y usted les dio sufeciente leche hoy?" (Have you given them enough milk today?) the new spots, "New Mother" and "I Don't Know" target women age 18-34.

According to Michele Martens, vice president of marketing, "The campaign is very family oriented, especially highlighting the bond between mothers and daughters, and spotlighting the role of the woman as the nurturer of the family—important values for the Hispanic community." "New Mother" shows a young woman sampling milk-based recipes to break the news to her mother that she's expecting a baby of her own. "I Don't Know" features a mother and young daughter exploring the benefits of drinking milk by playing a game, and agreeing that strong bones are important to give big hugs. The commercials began running in June in the New York Metro area.

Why does ADADC focus on the Hispanic community? Research has shown this audience to have one of the highest rates of milk consumption, specifically whole milk. In addition, the Hispanic population is one of the fastest growing demographic segments in the country, growing 38% while the overall population has grown just 9%.

Cinnamon-Scented Raspberry Rice Pudding

Turn mixture into a shallow 2-quart baking dish, coated with non-stick cooking spray. Cover with foil. Bake until rice has absorbed most liquid, about 35 minutes. Remove foil and fold in raspberries. Serve warm with additional milk, if desired. Yields approximately 5 cups. Makes 6 servings.

Holiday Classics Made Easy

Those "tougher-than-nails" meat cuts make great stock.

To prepare, remove visible fat from the meat and cover cold meat with cold water. (This helps draw out the juices.) Bring to a full boil, reduce heat and simmer, partially covered. You'll need to simmer cooked meat for at least one hour and raw meat for at least two. If you wish, add herbs and vegetables to enhance flavor. Skim off or discard any foam that rises during the cooking process. Remove bones or gristle. Strain the stock. Chill; remove solidified fat. Now you're ready to make soup or freeze stock for later use.

Often cookies baked "just right" appear to be slightly underbaked when they come out of the oven. Never overbake cookies. Leaving them in the oven even one minute too long can result in a too-firm, even tough baked product.

Unless the recipe calls for cookies to be cooled on the sheet, they may stick. If that happens, place them in the oven briefly so they will warm and soften; then they'll slide off the cookie sheet with ease.

Cruise For Calcium

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — What's 36 feet long, covered with celebrities, and has helped generate more than 92 minutes of positive publicity for milk on top of television stations throughout New York?

It's the Milk Mustache mobile, Cruise for Calcium 99!

In addition to bone density screenings and the milk mustache photo contest, blood pressure readings were included to help draw attention to calcium's role in preventing hypertension ADADC generated publicity at every New York tour stop, by arranging for the truck to visit top-rated television stations, and by inviting reporters to try their own milk mustache at events

In addition to television and newspaper coverage of the various tour stops, ADADC was able to gain exposure for many key partners, including supermarket chains. To help drive milk sales, consumers received a free "got milk?" T-shirt for presenting a receipt for two gallons of milk.

ADADC reminded consumers throughout New York to drink three glasses of milk a day on top-rated TV stations.

Winners from each of the 100 cities on the national tour are posted on the milk Web site, www.whymilk.com Plans are already underway for the 2000 tour.

American Angus Association, Certified Angus Beef Program Continue Growth

ST JOSEPH, MO — The American Angus Association experienced growth in nearly all areas of business at the completion of the 1999 fiscal year ended Sept 30

Registrations were up 3 1 percent and the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) Program estimates product sales of nearly a half billion pounds for the year

"We are very fortunate, especially in today's agricultural marketplace, to record 1999 as our 13th consecutive year of growth in the Angus business," said Richard L "Dick" Spader, executive vice president of the Association in St Joseph, Mo "All indicators tell us that demand for Angus genetics in commercial beef herds and demand for Angus branded beef products in stores and restaurants is not only strong, but gaining tremendous momentum as we head toward 2000 "

Registrations of Angus cattle reached 260,907, an increase of 3 1 percent and a 19-year high for the Association Transfers for the year, which represent sales of cattle to new owners, were steady at 151,390

A total of 619 Angus sales, including consignment, production and dispersal, were attended by regional managers representing the Association This compares with 581 sales reported in fiscal 1998, an increase of 6 5 percent Average prices for cows, bulls and steers were steady to slightly lower Respective averages include cows $1,949 per head, bulls, $2 051 per head, and registered Angus steers, $887 per head, with a total average for all lots of $2,003

Sales of Certified Angus Beef™ product reached nearly a half billion pounds, reconfirming the program's position as the largest breed-specific branded beef program in the world Projected annual sales of 492 million pounds, an increase of almost 20 percent, were reported Retail licensees sold 278 million pounds, the largest portion of total sales for the program, while food service licensees sold 140 million pounds International licensees contributed 68 million pounds to total sales

In all, 9 5 million cattle were visually identified for the Program, a 6 7 percent increase from 1998 Of those cattle, more than 1 9 million met Certified Angus Beef™ product specifications. The program's acceptance rate reached 20 percent, surpassing last year's acceptance rate of 18 percent.

Association members reported an all-time high number of weight records to the breed improvement department, submitting 642,160 in all, which was a 6 6 percent increase from the previous year The total breaks down to 258,866 birth, 251,549 weaning and 131,745 yearling weights.

Ag Economist: Failed WTO Talks A 'Bust' For Farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Marked by battles in Seattle's streets and tough talk at the negotiating table, the ministerial-level meetings of the World Trade Organization (WTO) ending Dec. 3 were "generally regarded as a bust" in achieving freer trade for U.S farm products, said Ohio State University agricultural economist Luther Tweeten

"The tragic part is that we left a potential $3-5 billion in increased trade for the American farmer at the bargaining table with no takers," Tweeten said. "There were fundamental differences. These will not be easy to resolve"

The dollar amount cited by Tweeten is the potential trade gain predicted by economic models had the WTO concluded with an agreement. However, blocs within the 135 participating countries hardened their bargaining positions, arguing that trade would hurt their farmers Tweeten characterizes the argument as based on "misinformation regarding the impact of trade and policy on farm structure"

Tweeten believes that keeping out imports in order to raise farm prices helps big farmers more than small farmers Thus trade barriers effectively speed up the consolidation of agriculture, he argues. In contrast, he contends that direct payments targeted to smaller farms are consistent with free trade and saving family farms.

"There's no conflict between trade and protecting the small farmer," he said.

Meanwhile some events that could open foreign markets to U.S. farm products did emerge as world attention focused on Seattle. One is the United States' bilateral agreement to support China's entry into the WTO in exchange for cutting tarrifs by one-half to two-thirds for U.S farm products, among other things, Tweeten said. U.S. farm trade with China could double or triple from the projected 1999 sales of $900 million, he said.

"Instead of about $1 billion in sales a year, we could export $2 billion to $3 billion," Tweeten said "If we could get them into WTO, we could see continued reductions in tariffs It would be nice to see China in the family of freer trade, not only for economic, but also for social reasons as well."

Perhaps the United States and the European Union need to negotiate an agricultural agreement independent of the WTO, Tweeten said. "If we can agree with them, I think the rest of the world will fall in line"

The WTO will resume its talks in a three-year round due to start in Geneva next year. Although Tweeten thinks these meetings could result in an agreement, he isn't holding his breath, either, because the Seattle meeting did not accomplish its goal of setting an agenda for specific issues.

Among the lingering contentious issues are export subsidies, which the United States would like to eliminate, and the so-called "decoupling" of support payments from farm production, although some form of subsidies would be allowed. In addition, the EU would like to reopen discussions of sanitary and phytosanitary (plant health) requirements, that would allow countries to bar products for alleged safety reasons not based on scientific evidence.

The United States' position isn't blameless, Tweeten said. The United States frequently bars imports by applying antidumping laws, while exporting products at prices below the cost of production, he said.

"I guess prosperity has made us very complacent," Tweeten said. "We don't take trade very seriously."

Tweeten counters critics by arguing that trade has increased prosperity in the United States. Trade raises living standards in the form of higher wages for workers and wider product selection worldwide, he said. He calls it a "positive-sum" game between trading countries

For example, computers used in the United States include indispensable components mad in Taiwan, Tweeten said. "When they recently had an earthquake in Taiwan, there were tremors felt throughout the world, but it wasn't from the earthquake. It was from the disruption of their industry that supplies computer products."

Miller Recognized By AHA

WOMELSDORF (Berks Co.) — Sheila Miler was recently recognized by the American Hereford Association (AHA) for producing two cows which were named to the national breed registry's Dams of Distinction list.

Miller has been raising purebred Hereford cattle in Berks County for 20 years Along with husband Michael and daughter Emilie, Miller is owner and operator of Deitschland Farms, Tulpehocken Township, a 150-acre cow/calf operation

Craig Huffines, AHA's executive secretary, said, "These are the most efficient cows in the Hereford breed. They have met the strictest requirements for early calving, reproductive efficiency, calving intervals no greater than one year, and weaning weight ratios in the top end of the breeder's herd."

Miller is one of 860 breeders who produced cows that earned the distinction in 1999. There were 3,111 cows named to the prestigious list for this year, according to AHA officials.

"I was quite proud to be recognized by our national organization," said Miller "It is the first time any of my cows have earned the title. It means a lot to have cattle that are the results of our genetic program being selected for this honor."

Named to the Dams of Distinction list are DL Prior Forecaster 9406, a daughter of IGT Forecaster 173T out of a FPP First Priority 28U daughter; and DL Miss Tulpehocken 9412, a daughter of Salunga Ascedant 12B In order to be honored as a Dam of Distinction, each cow had to:

- Wean a calf born after January 1, 1998; produce at least three calves
- Initially calve at 30 months of age or less;
- Have an interval between the first and second calves no greater than 400 days
- In addition, a 370-day calving interval must have been maintained after her second calf The longer the initial calving interval allows breeders to calve two-year-old heifers prior to the mature cow herd
- Have weanling records submitted to the Hereford Performance Program on every calf produced
- Have progeny average 205-day adjusted weanling weight ratio of at least 105.

"These are the cows that meet the highest standards of commercial cattle production," said Huffines "The cow must do her job, but also her owner must manage the herd correctly to give her the opportunity to excel Only a small portion of active cows are recognized All heifers have the potential of being a Dam of Distinction, but only a small percentage fit the job description of an ideal cow year in and year out"

A complete listing of Hereford cows that were recognized and the breeders who produced them is available for the American Hereford Association on their internet web site of http //www hereford org

Kentucky Breeder Elected To Lead American Angus Association

ST. JOSEPH, Mo — Charles "Bud" Smith Jr., Russell Springs, Ky., was recently elected president of the American Angus Association at the group's 1999 annual meeting Nov. 15 in Louisville, Ky.

Smith replaces outgoing president Bill Borror, Tehama, Calif., to lead the association after serving six years as director and the past year as vice president.

The annual meeting and election was conducted by nearly 300 delegates elected to represent American Angus Association members from their respective states. The meeting was conducted in the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition, which hosted the 1999 Angus Roll of Victory (ROV) Show.

Howard Hillman, Sioux Falls, S.D., was chosen by the delegates as vice president of the association, and five individuals were elected to the association's board of directors. Leo Baker, St. Onge, S.D, will serve his first three-year term on the board. Serving a second three-year term will be Jim Bradford, Guthrie Center, Iowa; Joe Elliott, Adams, Tenn.; Brian McCulloh, Viroqua, Wis.; and Lowell Minert, Dunning, Neb. Director Leroy Baldwin will serve as treasurer of the association for the coming year.

Bud Smith, the new association president, operates Smithland Angus Farm near Russell Springs, Ky., with his family. The operation was established by Smith's father, Bascum, in 1940 and not only includes Angus cattle, but also corn, soybeans, hay and tobacco

Smith and his family are active in junior Angus activities and he is a strong supporter of the National Junior Angus Association. He and his wife Pam, served as advisors to the Kentucky Junior Angus Association and were recognized as the National Junior Angus Association's advisers of the year. He has also served as a director of the Angus Foundation board and as an advisor to the National Junior Angus Board.

Leadership positions are familiar to Smith as he has served as president of the Kentucky Angus Association, as well as two terms on its board of directors. While on the American Angus Association's board of directors, he served as chairman of the activities and finance committees. He also held positions on the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) Program and Angus Productions Inc (API) boards of directors.

As president, Smith will oversee the American Angus Association's 15-member board of directors, which works both as a full board and in committees. His duties will include an ex-officio position on the CAB Program board of directors. He will work closely with staff members of the association to implement programs and ideas that will benefit Angus breeders throughout the coming year.

Association vice president Howard Hillman and his wife, JoAnne, operated Bon View Farms near Canova, S.D., until the herd was dispersed in 1998. They now live in Sioux Falls, S.D. Even though Hillman is no longer directly involved in the production of Angus cattle, he is still active in the Angus business and a strong promoter of the Angus breed.

While operating Bon View Farms, Hillman was known as a breeder of quality, performance-backed Angus cattle. He was recognized as the Seedstock Producer of the year in South Dakota in 1995 and the Master Breeder of the Year for the American Angus Breeders' Futurity.

Hillman has served on numerous committees for the association, as well as holding a seat on the CAB Program and API boards. He recently completed a year as treasurer of the American Angus Association.

Seneca County Young Farmer Wins Farm Bureau Discussion Meet

GLENMONT, N Y — Talking his way to the top, Seneca County's Jay Dey won New York Farm Bureau's Young Farmer and Rancher Discussion Meet Contest at its annual meeting at the Crowne Plaza in Albany, Dec. 6-9

Dey competed against four other contestants from across the state in a round-robin format discussing various agricultural topics for the state title.

The discussion meet is an exercise in cooperative problem-solving, in which contestants exchange ideas and viewpoints on a given topic. The contest is open to young farmers between the ages of 18-35.

Participants were asked to debate four questions: What is agriculture's role in wildlife management? How can Farm Bureau assist in developing alternative income sources for the farm family of today? How will increasing concerns for safe and abundant water affect agriculture in the next century? What obstacles are individuals facing when entering the agriculture industry today?

Dey, a graduate of the University of Buffalo, is a cash crop and hay producer Jay, wife Lorie and three children live near Ovid, N.Y

As the state winner, Dey received a $500 cash award from Dodge Truck and an expense paid trip to the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual meeting, Jan. 9-12 in Houston, Texas to compete for the national title. The national winner will receive a 2000 Dodge Ram 2500 4x4 pickup truck SLT with a Magnum V-10, plus an Arctic Cat 454 4x4 ATV.

Judging this year's discussion meet was Assemblyman Robert D'Andrea; David Salmonsen, director of governmental relations for the American Farm Bureau Federation; and Will Doolittle, Glens Falls Post Star.

Ag2000 Initiative Addresses Marketing, Land Preservation

BEL AIR, Md — Harford County Executive James M. Harkins and his administration are working closely with the Economic Development Agricultural Advisory Board, formerly the Ag Task Force, in formulating a plan for agricultural economic development, marketing and ag land preservation.

This plan, the Ag2000 Initiative, has already been made a priority by the Harkins administration. Harkins has put together an Ag Coordinating Committee comprised of directors and staff from key offices, including the Offices of Economic Development and Governmental and Community Affairs, and the Department of Planning and Zoning and Human Resources.

The Ag Coordinating Committee has taken the Ag2000 Initiative concept to the farming community through a series of public hearings. After three public hearings, the County Executive and A2000 Initiative chair James C. Richardson (Director of Human Resources) have gathered a wealth of information and ideas.

"For years, we (Harford County farmers) have felt like we were banging on the doors of Harford County Government and no one was there. Now, with the Harkins Administration, those doors have been opened We have a seat at the table and we are offered a menu," Mike Pons, chair of the Economic Development Agricultural Advisory Board, said.

While the County's Ag Coordinating Committee is working with the Ag Advisory Board on the Ag2000 Initiative, Harkins and his administration have already begun implementing several key action items identified in the plan.

Legislation has been introduced that would expand permitted uses in the ag zone. This legislation will enable farmers to supplement farm income with activities that lend themselves to the industry.

Also, a research project is under way to determine the feasibility of obtaining federal inspection for a local custom butcher shop. Once implemented, this would enable local beef producers to market their product in the wholesale and retail market.

Yet another action taken has been the creation of a web page. "The Electronic Farm." This electronic newsletter has been developed to assist the ag community with the marketing of its products and services.

Field trips are being organized in order to give students an opportunity to tour Harford County farms and to learn about diversity and opportunities within the agricultural industry.

Other significant projects currently under way include a study to identify the economic impact of Harford's agricultural industry, intiatives to enhance farmers' markets, and agritourism to provide people with recreational/educational opportunities.

Bob Tibbs, president of the Harford County Farm Bureau, refers to the Harkins' administration's outlook on agriculture as "one of great energy, enthusiasm, commitment and inclusion."

Wenger's Wins Environmental Innovation Award

RHEEMS, (Lancaster Co.) — Efforts by Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. to protect waterways through development of better poultry and swine feeds earned a 1999 Pennsylvania Governor's Award for Environmental Excellence.

Wenger's is being honored in technological innovation for producing and developing reduced phosphorus feeds through the use of phytase in its customized feeds.

"This technology is part of our long-term commitment to the community we serve and our overall corporate commitment to environmental stewardship," said F. Barry Shaw, president and CEO of the firm, whose representatives accepted the award today form Governor Tom Ridge in a Harrisburg Capitol Complex ceremony

Adding phytase to poultry and swine feed reduces the amount of phosphorus in manure. Phosphorus is an essential nutrient, but can become a pollutant if excess amounts build up in the soil and groundwater.

"Creative application of the technology means added benefits for the public, our animals and our farmers. Wenger's goal, and that of our customers using phytase, is not simply a reduction of potential pollution. We also are improving animal nutrition and growth while increasing the efficiency of advanced farming," Shaw noted.

Wenger's has engaged in an extensive customer education program to encourage the use of the phosphorus-reduced feeds and is dramatically extending the use of phytase in its products.

By incorporating the naturally occurring phytase enzyme into feeds, Wenger's is decreasing phosphorous by more than 30 percent in the feed and by more than 20 percent in the manure produced by the swine and poultry that consume the feed.

Registration Granted For Herbicides

PARSIPPANY, N.J. — American Cyanamid Company has received registration for Extreme™ and Backdraft™ herbicides for use on Roundup Ready® soybeans. Both products will be available for use during the 2000 growing season.

Extreme, a premix of Pursuit® herbicide, the leading residual soybean herbicide, and glyphosate, the active ingredient in Roundup® herbicide, will be a superior in-crop alternative to Roundup alone in Roundup® Ready soybeans. Backdraft will be the first and only soybean herbicide premix to combine the burndown activity of glyphosate with residual control and will be targeted at no-till acres in the southern Corn Belt and Mid-South. "Extreme and Backdraft will redefine how growers manage Roundup Ready soybeans," said George Fennell, business manager, soybean herbicides. "We know that, because we asked growers how they would improve Roundup. Eighty-five percent of them said, give it residual control. So we did."

Fennell attributes growers' interest in adding residual to glyphosate to their desire to make earlier in-crop applications. Market research shows that the growers would apply a Roundup-type product with residual six days earlier (27 vs. 21 days) than a typical Roundup-alone treatment

Fennell said many growers currently delay in-crop applications of Roundup in order to get by with a single post application, though they may not be totally comfortable doing so.

"By combining glyphosate, the active ingredient in Roundup, with the proven residual of Pursuit, Extreme provides growers the best opportunity to make a single post application – and they can make it earlier," said Fennell. "Extreme will be a superior alternative to Roundup alone in most Roundup Ready soybean situations."

In the no-till areas of the southern Corn Belt and Mid-South, Backdraft™ herbicide will be the burndown application in a sequential program with Roundup post-applied in Roundup Ready soybeans. With the residual activity of Backdraft in place at burndown, growers can postpone their in-crop application of Roundup until just prior to canopy.

"Growers using Roundup alone in no-till are making up to three or more applications of Roundup in their Roundup Ready soybeans – burndown, early- and late- post," said Fennell. "Backdraft will eliminate a trip across the field."

As with Extreme™ herbicide, Fennell points to research confirming grower interest in combining burndown with residual activity as the basis for launching Backdraft in 2000. "Sixty-six percent of growers expressed interest in this product concept," said Fennell "And we're more than willing to fill this unmet need in the marketplace"

Deere 5000 Advantage Tractors Deliver High Productivity In Package

MOLINE, Ill. — The John Deere 5105 and 5205 Advantage Series tractors are suited for price-conscious customers who want a basic features tractor in the 40 to 49 PTO horsepower range with greater fuel capacity for more work between fueling.

While retaining the key beneficial features of the 5000 Ten Series tractors, 5000 Advantage tractors include enhanced features that combine economy productivity. Both two-wheel drive and MFWD models are available.

The 5105 (40 hp) and the 5205 (48 hp) models feature the John Deere engineered and manufactured PowerTech diesel engines. These 3-cylinder, 2.9-liter, naturally aspirated engines meet the EPA emission requirements up to the year 2004 Other features include hydrostatic steering that provides fingertip control, even with a full loader bucket, an independent 540 RPM PTO, planetary final drives for extra strength, wet disk brakes, differential lock, operator presence warning for PTO operation, and retractable seat belts for safety. An underhood muffler provides improved and reduces sound level for increased operator comfort.

The John Deere 5105 and 5205 Advantage Series tractors are suited for price-conscious customers who want a basic features tractor in the 40 to 49 PTO horsepower range with greater fuel capacity for more work between fueling.

The tractors also have the new 8F/4R SynchReverser™ Transmission that provides more operator room because the transmission shift controls are mounted on both the left- and right-hand sides. The left-hand lever selects A and B ranges and Reverse. The A-range (low) to Reverse shift is synchronized and "in-line," permitting shuttle shifting after clutching, without coming to a complete stop. This feature speeds loader work or any job requiring frequent direction changing. The right-hand "in-line" collar shift gear lever selects one of four speeds.

The 5000 Advantage tractors feature a tandem-gear pump design that develops plenty of hydraulic capacity for fast implement response time (17.4 GPM total/6.5 GPM steering), so work goes faster to increase productivity.

Both 5105 and 5205 models allow the operator to see the drawbar and rear hitch from the operator seat, making implement attachment a lot easier. This is possible because of an innovative rear fuel tank that can be filled from either the left or right side. This massive fuel tank holds 22 4 gallons, the largest in its class, and delivers twelve hours of field operation before refilling.

Prowler A Year-Round Sprayer

BIGLERVILLE (Adams Co.) — Take to the fields — or anywhere else — with GVM's new "Prowler 2000" Row Crop Sprayer.

Continuing the proud legacy of its stellar "Row-Cat" sprayer, GVM introduces the "Prowler 2000," a sprayer that is equally at home roaming your fields and the roads between, at speeds of up to 45 mph.

A year-round sprayer, the GVM Prowler was designed with an eye toward the needs of customers looking for a year round sprayer to decrease their capital investments. The Prowler chassis features classic comfort and style along with standard features, such as a New Holland Genesis pressurized insulated cab with wrap around tinted windows, hydraulic tilt cab, fiberglass grille, fenders and bumper, deluxe comfort seating, AM/FM stereo cassette, tilt and telescoping steering column. A John Deere-Funk 4x4 complete with power shift transmission, six speeds forward, three speeds reverse, smart shift control, and self-locking inter-axle differential.

Prowler's chassis includes supreme air-ride suspension and oscillating axles for an unusually smooth ride even in the roughest of field conditions. Where the rubber meets the rows, Prowler maintains a light touch with less than 10 pounds per square inch and ground compaction need not be a problem. Prowler tire packages are available from Row Crop 385/75R, 34 up to 420/80R, 46, flotation front tire packages from 500-26.5, 12 ply up to 750-30.5, 8 ply and rear flotation tire packages from 700-26.5, 16 ply up to 850-30.5, 8 ply.

Prowler's spraying system includes 5 section 1-1/4-inch motorized ball valve shut-off with stainless steel ball and stem. A 2-inch x 1-1/2-inch hypro, 2-inch stainless steel t-strainer, s.s. inductor, s.s. manifold and valves, 100 gallon flow meter and 2-inch s.s. control valve. Prowler's powder coated 60-foot booms, 60-foot/80-foot tip fold over booms or optional 70-foot/90-foot tip fold over booms with accumulator shocks and 48-inch adjustable self-leveling back rack. Prowler can handle a 1,500 gallon, 1,250 gallon, 1,000 gallon, or 800 gallon tank capacity. The prowler comes standard with a 33-gallon Simpson Foam Marker with U-Air kit and a Raven 460 Liquid Controller. Optional Raven 660 liquid/dry combo controller or Raven 750 liquid/dry 5-module packages are also available.

Baler Cuts Costs, Lowers Horsepower Requirements

PELLA, Iowa — Rebel Balers, a new gang of round balers designed to simplify the process of haying while reducing the cost of baling, have been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Company.

The new Vermeer Rebel Balers (Models 5400 and 5500) are ideal for individuals who are haying fewer acres, but wanting large bale convenience, lower horsepower requirements and operating simplicity.

The Model Rebel 5400 produces 47-inch-wide bales, up to 60 inches in diameter, weighing up to 1,200 pounds. The larger Model Rebel 5500 produces 61-inch-wide bales, up to 65 inches in diameter and up to 1,500 pounds. (Weights are dependent upon variations in crop types and moisture levels.)

"These new Rebels are built for individuals who like to roll their own bales, on their own terms, setting their own schedules, and doing it all with a baler that doesn't give them sticker shock when they hear the price," said Mark Core, director of marketing, Vermeer Ag Division.

The new Vermeer Rebel Balers (Models 5400 and 5500) are ideal for individuals who are haying fewer acres, but wanting large bale convenience, lower horsepower requirements and operating simplicity.

"There are a lot of producers out there who like the performance and convenience of owning a big round baler," Core said. "However, they don't want the extra expense of higher horsepower tractors, nor do they necessarily need all the bells, and whistles built into today's top-of-the-line commercial models. All you need on the Model 5400 is a minimum 40 horsepower tractor (55 horsepower on the Model 5500) and you're ready to roll.

"Simply put, these Rebels offer a new, practical, warranted alternative without having to shop used balers or larger tractors. They offer the perfect balance of simplicity, long-term reliability, dependable performance and lower horsepower requirements."

What strikes you the most is the simplicity. It features an easy-to-operate "hitch and go" style, requires fewer moving parts/adjustments and provides easy access for service and maintenance. Even in heavy windrows and on rugged hilly terrain, the Rebel Baler can produce tight, square-shouldered bales that keep their shape until they're fed out.

Both Vermeer models feature adjustable hydraulic/spring belt tension and the patented true bottom drum design for high-density bales Combination 14-inch and 6-inch wide non-abrasive monofilament belts provide good belt-to-bale contact, improved crop retention and reduced slippage.

60 stalls in 60 seconds

"It's amazing how fast it is."
Dale Kennedy, Catalpa Farm, Middletown, PA

"The Millcreek Bedding Spreader saves me untold hours of back breaking manual labor installing fresh sawdust in my 125 stalls Now I use less material and get a more controlled application The Bedding Spreader is a good equipment value because I use it so often "

Now you can apply fresh wood shavings, sawdust or sand for free stall bedding 75% faster - with just one man No more shovel, no more backache

The Millcreek Bedding Spreader puts fresh bedding exactly where you want it There's nothing like it for fast, efficient and cost-effective application of fresh bedding material in free stall barns

For example, Scott Coblentz, Deer Spring Farm, Maryland, milks 280 head and uses sand to help improve herd health It used to take 2 men almost 2 days to install fresh bedding Now, with the Millcreek Bedding Spreader, one man does the job in hours.
